Great Britain Plans Action Against Japs

Reprisals for Trouble at Tientsin Expected if Japan Does not Adopt Different Attitude

Drastic Economic Measures May Be Taken at Meeting of Entire British Cabinet Today

London, June 18 (AP)—The foreign affairs committee of the cabinet will meet tomorrow to consider reprisals against Japan unless there is an unexpected change in the far eastern situation.

Key ministers remained in London over the weekend hopeful that Japan would indicate a willingness to compromise the dispute which resulted in the blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin but nothing had occurred tonight to relieve the critical situation.

Officials of the foreign office, the board of trade and the treasury already have prepared a report on possible economic measures which could be taken as a reply to the blockade.

Japanese action against the concessions resulted from British refusal to hand over four Chinese wanted by the Japanese for the assassination of a Tientsin customs official, but Japanese demands since have been widened.

Cabinet to Meet
After the report has been examined by the Foreign Affairs Committee, a full meeting of the cabinet will be called—if the committee thinks it necessary—to put retaliatory measures into effect immediately.

Prime Minister Chamberlain was expected to make a statement in the House of Commons tomorrow afternoon.

The United States and France
Britain. It was said in official circles however, that the question of joint action had not yet been discussed.
They said Britain was going ahead with her plans independently.

Some sources believed economic measures would be too slow to do much good in breaking the blockade but it was pointed out in official circles that Japan has been fighting a costly war for two years, and that such measures would impose a serious strain on her financial structure.

Proposals were understood to include denunciation of the British Japanese trade agreement of 1911.

May Boost Tariff
This would open the way for imposition of heavy tariffs on Japanese goods and embargo on certain raw materials.

The foreign affairs committee also will consider possible precautionary measures against incidents which might provoke a dangerous clash in Tientsin.

Keyes, a Parliament member, said

Midnight to Daylight Two Hours on Clipper

New York, June 18 (AP)—Passengers aboard the flying boat Atlantic Clipper found the time element as scrambled as their breakfast eggs, a National broadcasting Company presentation from the plane revealed today.

"We went to bed about midnight and a couple of hours

George Hicks, NBC announcer.
He decided this was because of the speed (159 M.P.H.) with which the plane was racing toward the rising sun.

Tax and Monetary Bills Expected To Pass in Few Days

Both Will Come up Today and Leaders Predict

"NUISANCE TAXES" LIKELY TO REMAIN

Change in Tax on Incomes Said To Be Favorable to Business

Washington, June 18 (AP)—With only twelve days remaining of the federal fiscal year, congressional leaders have mapped an ambitious schedule of legislative action this week on major measures which must be disposed of before the year's end June 30.

Foremost in this category are the tax revision bill and a measure continuing the president's monetary powers which are to come up in the House and Senate respectively tomorrow.

Included in the tax bill are continuation of present excise levies—the so-called "nuisance taxes"—due to expire with the end of this month. If the new fiscal year arrives with these taxes not reenacted, the government will lose several million dollars for each day they remain off the statute books.

Predict Speedy Action
House leaders were optimistic that the tax bill could be passed in one day and sent to the Senate.
Buoying this hope was the indication that no one had any major quarrel with the measure reported by the ways and means committee.

A majority report from the committee said the bill, which would substitute a flat 18 per cent tax on the incomes of larger corporations for the present undistributed profits tax would eliminate many "irritants" and "deterrents" to business.

Minor committee members said the legislation was all right as far as it went but added that it did not go far enough.

The administration - sponsored legislation to continue the $2,000-000,000 stabilization fund and the

Continue Efforts To Locate Lost French Submarine

Paris Officials Believe It Is in about 365 Feet of Water

Paris, June 18 (AP)—French naval officials said tonight they had established that the submarine Phenix with a reported seventy one men aboard had sunk approximately eight miles northeast of Cam Ranh bay.

The location of the disaster, these officials declared, was shown on naval maps to be in water between 365 and 375 feet deep.

The maps also showed, they said, that in that part of the Chinese sea the ocean's bed is flat without rocky ledges which might have foiled and wrecked the Phenix.

Authorities said two cruisers, three coastguard boats and two other vessels were continuing their search in an attempt to find the Phenix.

Only her sister submarine, espoir (Hope), had turned back to Saigon.
Naval officials said that at such a depth where the Phenix had gone down there would have been little possibility of getting the men out alive even if the ship itself had withstood the tremendous water pressure.

The submarine, lost last Thursday during exercises in Far Eastern waters, became a political issue in France with controversy raging over whether sabotage was responsible.

Although naval experts scorned such suggestions, the press discussed the possibility with vigor.

James Arthur Is Named Skipper of Maryland's V.F.W.

Baltimore Man Elected at End of Three-Day Convention

Hagerstown, Md., June 18 (AP)— James Arthur of Baltimore was elected commander of Maryland's veterans of foreign wars today, defeating Louis N. Phipps of Annapolis on the second ballot by a narrow margin.

Arthur and Phipps were tied at 115 votes each on the first ballot.
The second ballot vote was not announced, but Arthur was unofficially reported to have won by less than five votes.

Ends Three-Day Meeting

The election of officers closed the three-day encampment as rain forced cancellation of a huge parade scheduled this afternoon.

Other officers included Moe Himelfarb, Baltimore senior vice-commander; Anton Novak Baltimore, junior vice-commander;
Ralph McCleery, Perryville, chaplain; John G. Koenig, Baltimore, quartermaster; William H. McClelland, Baltimore, judge advocate; and Dr. H. L. Wheeler, Landsdowne, surgeon.

Cumberland Woman Named
Mrs. Minnie Fanning of Baltimore was elected president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Elsie Kilroy of Cumberland and Mrs. Agnes Eber-enz, of Baltimore, were elected senior and junior vice-presidents, respectively.

Other officers were Mrs. Mary Hopps, Baltimore, secretary; Mrs.
Myrtle Carlton, Hyattsville, treasurer; Mrs. Mae Carey, Baltimore, chaplain, and Mrs. Jane Cupps Baltimore, guard.

Arthur will succeed Charles J.
Peters, of Baltimore.

Lie Detector Credited with Aiding In Solution of Killing of Child

Sheriff Says Mother Has Confessed Throwing Baby into River

By ARTHUR S. BOSTWICK

Fremont, O., June 18 (AP)—Authorities today credited a lie detector and a mongrel dog, "Rags," with leading them to a solution of the mysterious "kidnap" slaying of Baby Haldon Fink.

They said the solution was Mrs.
Velma Baker Fink's oral confession that she threw her tiny son into a creek to "get rid" of him, after a quarrel with her mother over care of the child.

Mrs. Fink made her statement after several hours' questioning with lie-detector apparatus strapped to her arm.

At the same time, the 22-year-old mother's family said they doubted she was rational at the time she made the statement. If she did tell the truth, Mrs. Fink's brother Edwin Baker contended, she could not have "been in her right mind" to do what she described.

"We're going to press that angle very hard," the brother, who is 20, asserted as he went to visit Mrs.
Fink in jail.

Sheriff Describes Killing

Sheriff H. L. Myers said brown-eyed Mrs. Fink admitted she took her 10-week-old son from the Clyde, O., home of her parents, where she and the baby were living following her June 6 divorce, last Tuesday night about 9:35 o'clock.
She drove four miles out of town, and threw the child, blanket-wrapped, from a bridge into Green Creek, Sheriff Myers said.

The body was sighted downstream next day by two sheriff's deputies, after Mrs. Fink and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Baker had reported the child abducted.

"I didn't realize what I had done until I got home and saw the empty cradle," Sheriff Myers quoted her as saying calmly.

"My mind must have slipped."
Failure of the dog "Rags" to bark when the baby was spirited away led Sheriff Myers to believe he could solve the killing in the baby's own home, he asserted.

Members of the family all had been questioned exhaustively since the body was found Wednesday.
Grandfather Oren Baker said the baby apparently was taken when Mrs. Fink and Mrs. Baker were away from the house for a short time.

BRIEF STOP AT HORTA ON WAY TO LISBON

Giant Ship Averaging 159 Miles an Hour on Long Trip

By DEVON FRANCIS

Lisbon, Portugal, June 18 (AP)—For the first time in the two-decade history of transatlantic flying—marked by heroism, success and disaster—a commercial airplane today brought a cabinload of passengers from America to Europe.

With all the ease of a train or a ship, the speedy Atlantic Clipper soared from the new world to the old with 18 newspaper reporters and radio men and 12 crew members—the largest number of persons ever to cross the Atlantic by airplane.

When Captain W. D. Culbertson settled the Clipper upon the wind-ruffled waters of the Tagus river at 7:44 P. M. (2:44 P. M., E.S.T.) we were just 23 hours and 50 minutes out of New York, having flown
3,447 miles—as measured by Pan-American Airways—at a speed of 152.4 miles per hour.

Short Stop at Horta

The 1,050-mile distance from Horta, the Azores, was flown in seven hours and 31 minutes. A stop of one hour and 11 minutes was made at Horta this morning.

The whole "preview" trip, preceding by 11 days the introduction of regular passenger service across the Atlantic, had a tea-time casualness.

The spaciousness of the quarters and the remote sound of the four motors, fitted into the leading edge of the great 152-foot wings, contributed to the feeling of the traveler that he was anywhere but in a plane high above the ocean.

Thirteen men and five women on the passenger deck slept, dined, read and watched the "cloud country" slip by until we reached Lisbon.
That is about all.

Well, of course there was the sea beneath, which the sun converted into a piece of hammered silver.
And of course at night there is the planet Venus flashing red and white on the horizon like a traffic light, or a lighthouse.

I missed my breakfast by being up so late watching the sight.

Goebbels Cheered For Danzig Talk Praising Hitler

Says Free City is German and Cannot Be Changed

Free City of Danzig, June 18 (AP)— Danzig is German and "no amount of diplomacy or power politics can change this fact," German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels told a cheering audience today in this Nazi-dominated free city.
Goebbels spoke for 59 minutes at the closing session of Danzig's culture week.

"In these hard and tension-filled times we can depend on him (Adolf Hitler)," he said. "Before us stands a Reich strong and solid, behind us stands the nation; over us stands the Fuehrer."

"We need not fear any power in the world, x x x I need not say again that the German people in its compactness stands by you and that you need have no anxiety for the fate of your city or of the so-called free state."

Theater Packed
The state theater in which Goebbels spoke was packed, with brown-shirted Nazi storm troopers predominating. A large crowd stood outside.

"Political frontiers disappear with time, but frontiers formed by blood remain eternal," the fiery little propaganda minister asserted.

"Here in Danzig I see men who speak the German language and who uphold German culture. I feel myself on this side of the political border."

The German character of Danzig, he said, can not be a matter for parliamentary discussion, adding:
"In cultural matters everything is perfectly clear. This city is in the Minneapolis, June 18 (AP)—A tornado striking north and west of here late today killed at least seven persons, demolished 75 houses in the Anoka area 20 miles to the northwest and injured 63 persons.

The known dead:
Mrs. Anna Freeman, 76, Minne-

Speeding home after an outing, Mrs. Freeman, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, and another daughter, Ellen Freeman, ran head-on into the tornado, which whipped their machine through the air for several hundred yards, killing them all.

Grout's house was flattened in an instant and he and an unidentified man died beneath it. Fishing on a river bank near his house, Zimmerman was whirled 175 yards through the air to his death.

Zimmerman died before the horrified eyes of Detective Ed Ryan, of Minneapolis, who stood not far away, safe from the freakish storm.
"It rode through town like a freight train crossing a trestle," Ryan described the wind.

Dipping with deadly force out of the southwest, the storm first cracked across an area near Corcoran, several miles northwest of here. It was there that Mrs. Freeman and her family died.

Six blocks in Anoka were leveled.

Glass That Shrinks Announced By Corning, N. Y., Glass Works

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Corning, N. Y., June 18 (AP)— Glass that shrinks, a new discovery in the art of glass-making, was announced here today.

After being formed in the time honored manner, this glass contracts to two-thirds its original volume. The result is stable, a new kind of glass, that is almost like pure fused quartz.

The new glass is so nearly free from expansion and contraction that a goblet heated cherry-red can be thrust into ice water without cracking the glass. The discovery was announced by Amory Houghton, president of the Corning Glass Works.

The main part of the discovery is not use of different raw materials, but control of the cooking process. The starting materials are borosilicates, the pyrex glass substances which were used to make the 200-inch "eye" of the world's greatest telescope here at Corning.

These are mainly silica sand, soda ash, boron oxide, and "cullet," which is broken glass to assist in melting. This is heated, above 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit to a point where two grades of silica com-

ing the molten material are still separate, one distributed like powder through the other. One of the silicas is high grade, the other low.

At this stage the molten glass is taken from the furnace and cast, or it could be blown, into the article desired. Next the utensil is soaked for hours in a bath of dilute nitric acid. The acid dissolves out all the low grade silica. Thirty-six per cent of the volume is thus dissolved away, leaving a dish that is 96 per cent pure high grade silica.

Next, the glass is heated. This literally shrinks it. A plate 12 and one-half inches in diameter shrinks to nine inches. The glass becomes entirely solid in the shrinking, and again is clear as water.

Sixteen years of research went into this discovery. The work was directed by Dr. E. C. Sullivan, vice chairman of the board and research director, and W. C. Taylor, chief chemist. The process was patented in the names of H. F. Hood and Dr.
Martin E. Nordby and the patent assigned to the Corning Glass Works.

Mr. Houghton said that commercial production is not expected for at least two years or more.

Republicans To Press for Vote On Hatch Bill

Hope To Restrict Political Activities of Federal Employees

Washington, June 18. (AP)—The Republican minority in the House served notice today that it would seek to force a vote on the Hatch bill restricting political activity by federal employees, if the measure was not brought up soon by administration leaders.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said that if the judiciary committee did not send the measure to the floor quickly, his party would circulate a petition to force a vote in the House.

Democrats Favorable
"We have enough Democrats to join us in a petition to bring the bill to the House floor," Martin said. "A majority of the house is for the bill and is entitled to record its will."

While Speaker Bankhead said recently that he thought the bill would be brought to a vote before the session ended, there has been no indication that the committee would report it soon.

On the contrary, Representative Celler (D-N.Y.), acting chairman, expressed the opinion that restriction on the political activity of relief workers contained in the $1,735,000 relief bill just approved by the House might eliminate the necessity for the Hatch measure.

Seek Permanent Rule
However, Representative Hobbs (D-Ala.) and Michener (R-Mich.), other members of the committee, joined with Martin in contending that the provisions of the Hatch bill should be made permanent, rather than a part of relief legislation which expires in a year.

The Hatch bill was passed by the Senate in April and has been pending since in the House committee. Asked about the administration attitude toward it, President Roosevelt said at his press conference last Friday that everyone favored the bill's objectives, but that it had been badly drawn and that the House committee was trying to re-draft it.

In that connection he made a reference to the fact that some have contended that the language forbidding political activity by a federal job-holder was so broad that a congressman might be prohibited from running for re-election.

Like Civil Service Rule
Senator Hatch (R-Utah) the author, said the language mentioned by the President was "an exact copy of the rule prohibiting political activity" by civil service employees.

As passed by the Senate, the measure would prohibit political contributions by or assessments of persons on relief, would outlaw coercion or intimidation in connection with presidential and congressional elections, and would make it illegal for government officials to attempt to influence voters.

Lie Detector Credited With Aiding in Solution Of Killing of Child

Ohio is the electric chair—against Mrs. Pink tomorrow.

Mrs. Pink slept several hours in the quarters of Sheriff Myers, adjacent to the Sandusky county jail, after making her statement in the presence of her brother and mother, and nibbled at rolls and drank a cup of coffee.

She appeared rested and composed. In contrast, she had sobbed hysterically Saturday at funeral services for the baby, moaning "they can't take him away from me."

The baby's father, Ervin, 23—whom Mrs. Pink divorced on a charge of neglect—declared he was "at a loss for words." He and six other relatives and friends of the Baker family had been subjected to tests on the lie-detector.

Prosecutor Hyzer said Mrs. Pink and her mother quarreled early last Tuesday over care of the baby. Mrs. Pink came home between 1 and 2 a. m. from a date with Richard White, a factory worker, Hyzer related and Mrs. Baker remonstrated with her for returning home so late.

It was almost 20 hours later that the young mother determined to "get rid" of the child, the sheriff and prosecutor asserted.

center of political agitation but not so in cultural matters."

Goebbels spoke after Nazi District Leader Albert Forster told the crowd the propaganda minister's visit "means more at this time than can be expressed because Danzig is at the center of world attention."

Forster Thanks Speaker
Turning to the Nazi minister, Forster said "your speech yesterday more directly than anything that has yet happened gives us courage in this hour and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

This was in reference to an informal speech last night in which Goebbels said the union of the Free City with Germany was inevitable and could not be prevented by any power on earth.

Goebbels called foreign politicians "mere hand workers" compared with Hitler who he said was "an artist."

"Only an artist could have built the Fuehrer's Nazi state," he added.

Three Perish in Apartment Fire

Providence, R. I., June 18. (AP)—Trapped in their fourth floor apartment, a former vaudeville star plunged to his death and an 80-year-old couple died in flames today as fire swept a large apartment building in the Edgewood section. Twenty-five persons were injured.

Burns and injuries suffered in a leap for life proved fatal to Eddie Healey, 44, restaurateur who once played the piano and sang in the stage team of Healey and Cross. Healey, his clothing aflame, jumped from the window of his apartment just as firemen arrived.

Their hands clasped, the charred bodies of the elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Booth, were found in the smoking debris hours after the fire broke out.

Five seriously injured persons were taken to a hospital while the others were treated nearby.

No estimate of the damage was made by firemen several hours after the flames were checked but the building was constructed at a cost of $300,000. All but two of its 54 apartments were occupied.

Police at first said two other persons were burned to death but a re-check later put the total fatalities at three. A dozen persons, at first unaccounted for, were found to be safe.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Discover Plot To Slay Carol

Bucharest, June 18. (AP)—Four men believed to be attempting to escape abroad after discovery of an alleged plot to assassinate King Carol and members of his government were the objects of a wide search today.

Police said seven men arrested yesterday had confessed, and frontier guards were ordered to redouble vigilance against escape by other members of what military authorities described as a wholesale assassination ring.

Sources close to the government said those in custody were former members of the outlawed Iron guard who admitted they planned mass murders to avenge their chieftain, Corneliu Codreanu.

Codreanu and 13 of his subleaders in the Iron guard were killed last Nov. 30 when, officials said, they attempted to flee from a concentration camp.

Throughout Rumania hundreds of detectives searched homes of former members of the anti-semitic Iron guard, taking many into custody.

The alleged leader of the arrested men, Ion Paslaru, an orthodox priest, was quoted as telling questioners "Codreanu will be avenged even if we fail."

Profit Sharing Urged as Needed In United States

only on a flat wage scale will cease." The study was made by Senate Finance Subcommittee composed of Senators Herring (D-Ia.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.). Vandenberg was author of the resolution suggesting the investigation.

On the subject of "incentive taxation," which was discussed at length during hearings, the committee held that further exploration was necessary. Under this proposal, industries would be offered certain tax exemptions to induce them to adopt profit-sharing.

No Recommendations
The committee made no recommendations for legislation to compel adoption of profit sharing, but it did make these two suggestions:

1. That payments to employees from accumulated profit-sharing retirement funds be exempt from all income taxes.

2. That the federal government issue special "profit sharing" bonds, available only for profit-sharing funds and to be used for the protection of profit-sharing fund investments. The committee contended that instability of security values and low interest rates in recent years had made it difficult to invest such funds safely.

Stocks Sell Off in Spite of Better Industrial Operations

Fear of Another Blowoff in Europe Given as One of Reasons

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, June 18. (AP)—Wall Street for more than a month has been confronted with a contrast between rising business barometers and stagnant security markets.

The contrast was emphasized last week when stock and bond quotations were marked down moderately in face of numerous reports showing improvement in industrial operations the last few weeks and trade forecasts of further improvement. The steel trade publication "Iron Age," for instance, said a July and August rise in steel operations may be expected.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity scored its sharpest gain since November and now has recovered more than a third of its loss on the slow recession between November and early May. The rally has lifted the index from 81.8 to 87.1.

In light of this upswing in business, market analysts have made various explanations of the drift in Wall Street speculation, including:

(1) Fear of another blow-off in Europe, revived last week by suspicion the rift between the Japanese and the British over the Tientsin blockade might be the curtain-raiser for more important moves in the chessboard play between the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo combination and the anti-Hitler line-up.

(2) A desire to wait for fuller disclosure of administration spending plans for 1940 and for hints how the groundswells of public sentiment are moving for the presidential election.

(3) A "normal" between-seasons tendency to mark time until trends for the second half of the year can be judged better.

Wall street finds almost a duplicate of this year's stock market pattern in the action of prices in the comparable period of 1938. The market was virtually motionless through May and most of June, then turned upward in a spectacular rise in the final ten days of June, foreshadowing a mid-year swing toward improvement in business generally.

Atlantic Clipper Makes Fast Time On First Flight

It is quick transoceanic transportation plus sleep in berths so comfortable he can miss his breakfast unless he leaves a call.

They tell me we flew 150 miles off the course around a storm before we landed at Horta this morning. I only know I was still sleepy when we flushed a lovely group of islands out in mid-ocean for a quick landing and refueling at the Azores.

If anyone can create drama out of the stuff whereof this kind of flying consists he must look back to the night when ten officers, who take turns at the watch, brought 41 tons of airplane unerringly over 2,400 miles of ocean to that tiny chain of islands.

On the bridge the captain supervises the navigator who works in the same fashion as his brother-mariner aboard a surface liner. The captain checks the engineers who change the throttles of the great engines on orders telephoned from the cockpit by the pilots. He confers with the radiomen who every 15 minutes contact land stations. Every 90 minutes an engineer walks out into the wings to examine operation of the four engines.

Due to certain international restrictions the Clipper remains here overnight, and takes off for Marseille tomorrow at 7 A. M. (2 A. M. E.S.T.).

Hitler Outstanding Personality of Year

Princeton, N. J., June 18. (AP)—Adolf Hitler is the outstanding world personality of the year in the eyes of Princeton University seniors. The German dictator got 293 votes in the graduating class poll while prime minister Neville Chamberlain was second with 87 and President Roosevelt third with 21.

Milk was voted the favorite beverage, with beer second and scotch third. Rudyard Kipling was the favorite poet.

Among stage stars Katharine Cornell and Maurice Evans topped the list and for the screen Margaret Sullivan and Gary Cooper won.

Stork Abandons Pre-Determinator

Newark, N. J., June 18. (AP)—Sir stork apparently had abandoned sex pre-determinator Sidney A. Fortel tonight, but the 37-year-old linen supply company owner who predicted three months ago that his wife would bear him a son on June 17 or 18 insisted it was nothing more than a delay.

"I still have time," he said two hours before the midnight deadline which he himself set when he sent "announcements" of the birth to friends on March 7, adding that "I might give myself a couple of extra hours just to make sure."

Blonde Mrs. Jane Fortel, 25 and mother of five-year-old unpredictable Marvin, was still at home, however, and Beth Israel hospital attaches said no reservations had been made for the arrival of Marvin's brother.

Fortel dove into the records of some 50 cases in which he said he had batted 1,000 per cent in predicting the sex of friends' offspring during a 20-year study of medical books and frequent surveys among feminine acquaintances of the family.

"I can say now," he remarked, "that if the baby isn't born by 2 A. M. tomorrow, it will be delayed about 10 days—which means my son will be born either on June 26 or 27."

"The time element isn't so important anyhow," he continued. "The important thing is it will be a boy, and I'm still 100 per cent certain that my formula will work."

Corcoran and Anoka, Minn., Ask for Help

Officials in the twin cities organized doctors, nurses, police and sheriff's officers into rescue squads. Adjutant General Eliard Walsh ordered national guardsmen of the twin cities to report at their headquarters and with Gov. Harold Stassen he went to the disaster area.

Four Young People Describe Tornado

Minneapolis, Minn., June 18. (AP)—A block and a half away from today's tornado ripped through Anoka, 20 miles northwest of here, a group of four young people watched horrified as sections of the town were destroyed.

Bill Messner, 24, and his wife, Lavonne, 23, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Karkhoff, were in a buffet on Main street, when they heard a roaring sound.

"It sounded like an approaching train coming fast," said Messner. "A woman got up and said a tornado's coming. She began to scream. We didn't believe her at first. Then the sound got nearer."

"It came so fast we didn't have a chance to go anywhere. We headed for the basement but we never got there—the wind came so fast."

Everything started flying in the air, said Mrs. Karkhoff. "Timber, bricks, shingles went flying everywhere. People were scattering in all directions."

"Trees and telephone poles were snapped off like sticks of little wood," said Mrs. Messner. "One house was blown away entirely and all there was left was the bathtub. If it hadn't been so serious it would have been funny."

One of the first demolished houses they saw was that of H. G. Groat, who was killed.

"There wasn't a thing left standing in the Groat house," said Messner. "The fireplace, chimney, everything was gone—there wasn't a stick of wood a foot high left standing."

Soaking Rain Great Aid in Tobacco Area

Leonardtown, Md., June 18. (AP)—A soaking, drought-breaking rain fell on dry tobacco lands today and farmers, ignoring the Sabbath, took to the fields to plant their crops.

The rain covered southern counties and soaked a major portion of both western and eastern Maryland, reviving crops and preventing damage which farmers feared would run into thousands of dollars.

A night-long rain fell on St. Mary's county deep in southern Maryland, and it rained intermittently during the day. A severe electrical and thunderstorm broke over Calvert county about 4.30 a. m. and the downpour lasted about five hours.

At Hagerstown the rain cancelled a parade planned as the grand finale to the foreign wars veterans' convention. Eastern shore league baseball games were rained out at Cambridge and Pocomoke.

Great Britain Plans Action against Japs

"events at Tientsin, with the support given to the Japanese by Germany and Italy, really amount to a declaration of war against the British and it is a challenge which must be met."

1,500 British and French Prisoners in Tientsin

Shanghai, June 19. (Monday) (AP)—Fifteen hundred Britons were virtual prisoners today within the British and French concessions in Tientsin as the Japanese blockade entered the sixth day.

British authorities in the North China port urged their nationals not to move beyond the limits of the concessions in view of increasing animosity toward them and with the issue between Japan and Great Britain sharpened by Japanese declarations of determination to increase the pressure unless the British discontinued aid to China.

Only three Britons were reported to have passed the Japanese barricades Saturday and Sunday.

Official British reports said the first, a man, was forced to strip; the second, a girl, was roughly handled by a Chinese policeman; and the third, a man, was partially disrobed and also roughly handled.

Will Continue Pressure
General Hamma, commander of the Japanese garrison in Tientsin, yesterday voiced Japan's intention of continued pressure.

His statement, as reported in North China dispatches, expressed an increasingly strong determination to carry on restrictions "until Great Britain abandons her policy of assisting Chiang Kai-Shek and the British concession in Tientsin collapses."

He further was quoted as threatening that the Japanese army would launch "tighter isolation measures" if the British undertook economic reprisals.

General Hamma's statement stressed Japan's belief or hope that the United States would not support any economic measures Britain might attempt.

"The foreign affairs committee of the British cabinet will meet Monday to consider reprisals against Japan, a London dispatch said unless there is an unexpected change in the far eastern situation."

No Joint Action Planned
A full meeting of the cabinet is to be called if the committee think necessary. Both the United States and France continued to keep in close contact with Britain on the situation but officials in London stated, as had Secretary of State Hull last week in Washington, that the question of joint action against Japan had not yet been discussed.

General Hamma's statement brought a greater feeling of pessimism to residents of the Tientsin concessions, who turned their eyes toward London, Washington and Paris.

At the end of five days of the blockade, imposed originally because British refused to hand over four Chinese wanted by the Japanese for the assassination of a customs official, the situation in Tientsin was as follows:

Business at Standstill
1. Almost all business had stopped completely.

2. Food supplies had been reduced dangerously with a further shortage and higher prices expected.

3. While British were unable to leave the zones without being made to undress and possibly undergo rough treatment, Americans as well as other foreigners usually were able to pass the barricades without difficulty.

One United States citizen, Mrs. H. D. Rodger, however, was told to go to the end of a long Chinese line when she tried to enter the British concession with her sister, who is British by marriage. The two sisters refused and managed to reach their destination by another route.

G. A. Smith, a British exporter who was arrested Saturday following an argument with a Chinese policeman outside the concession, still was held in Japanese headquarters despite consular efforts to effect his release.

Two British ships arrived at Tientsin from Tangku, at the mouth of the Hai river.

Probe Detention of American Aviator

Madrid, June 18. (AP)—United States Ambassador Alexander W. Weddell said today he was inquiring into the continued detention of American aviator Harold E. Dahl in a Nationalist hospital at Salamanca.

The governor of Salamanca said yesterday that Dahl, in good health, was being well treated, but declined to say when he might be freed.

Miss Houlder To Lecture Thursday

Meyersdale Women's Club Arranges for Program Thursday Night

Meyersdale, Pa., June 18.—Miss Graccio Houlder, native Australian and international platform lecturer and orator, who recently finished a speaking tour in the state of Ohio, is enjoying a few weeks' rest as the guest of Miss Kate Olinger. A sister of Miss Olinger, Mrs. C. M. Beachy, Wichita, Kans., is an intimate friend and patron of the Australian celebrity.

Thursday Miss Houlder entertained the local Rotary Club with an address, and this week she will be the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Somerset Rotary Club. The Women's Club of Meyersdale has completed arrangements to have Miss Houlder give an address in the First Methodist church Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Snider returned home Friday evening from several days in Philadelphia attending the activities in connection with the commencement of Temple University, when on Thursday, in Convention Hall, their daughter, Miss Jean Snider, received her degree of Bachelor of Science and Medical Laboratory Technology. Miss Snider since last February has been employed in the Peninsula hospital, Salisbury, after having completed her work in the medical school of Temple University. She graduated from Meyersdale high school in 1934 and attended Duke University at Durham, N. C., prior to entering Temple University.

Officers Are Elected

At the closing session of the thirty-fifth annual Somerset county Sabbath School Association, which ended Friday night, Dr. Guy N. Hartman, county superintendent of schools, was reelected president of the association for the ensuing year.

Other officers are James E. McCarty, of Meyersdale, first vice-president; N. H. Weaver, Scalp Level, second vice-president; Prof. H. B. Speicher, Boswell, third vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Kammerer, of Somerset, secretary-treasurer.

Divisional superintendents: Mrs. J. E. McCartney, Meyersdale, children; George W. Hoffman, Somerset, R. D. young people; Prof. R. B. Barner, Rockwood, adults; Ira Friedline, Jennerstown, school administration.

Department superintendents: Mrs. A. M. Wright, Salisbury, missionary; Mrs. M. A. Bowley, Somerset, Christian education; Rev. W. J. Lloyd, Windber, parent training; A. B. Hoffman, Somerset, R. D. home extension; Mrs. F. W. White, Rockwood, temperance, and J. D. Keefe, Somerset, publicity.

Guest Minister Speaks
The Rev. John D. Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Long, near Meyersdale, was guest minister today at both services in the Meyersdale Church of the Brethren. The Rev. Long, who is a product of the local public schools and of Juniata College, was ordained a minister some years ago and served the Maple Glen, Salisbury, Garrett and Beachdale circuit. Last fall he enrolled as a student in the Bethany Bible Seminary, Chicago, for a four years' course in theology.

In addition to his school work the Rev. Long has been serving as student pastor of the Liberty Mills Church of the Brethren, located near North Manchester, Ind. During the coming school year, in addition to his studies and other activities, the Rev. Long has been chosen to serve as a part time instructor in the Bible training school at Bethany Seminary.

Brief Items
Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock the Rev. and Mrs. Harold H. Eiting and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dods, Akron, O., will conduct a young people's rally in the Main street Brethren church, to which both young and old are cordially invited. The Rev. Eiting is superintendent of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union, pastor of the Marshallville Evangelical church, besides directing other activities in Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Mrs. Eiting is director of junior work in Evangelical summer camps, while Mrs. Juanita Dodd is pianist of the World's C. E. Union, and vice-president of that organization in Ohio.

Miss Lois Hady, Broadway street, who was the guest of relatives in Minerva, Ohio, for the past three weeks, will spend this week in Pittsburgh visiting her sister, Miss Margie Hady, who is a student nurse in St. Joseph's hospital, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kerrigan, before returning home.

William W. Black, former editor of the Meyersdale Republican, departed today for Philadelphia, where he has accepted the post of manager of the classified advertising department on a new paper that is being established in that city. Mr. Black's father, the Rev. Blanchard Allen Black, for the past fifteen years was pastor of Amity Evangelical and Reformed church, and whose resignation becomes effective July 1, has succeeded his son as editor of the Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hartley, Meyers avenue, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Lois Grey, to Leonard Merle Beynon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Beynon, Sherman street, Tuesday, August 3, 1937, at Romney, W. Va. by the Rev. C. K. Poole, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Beynon is a teacher in the local public schools. The bridegroom is manager of the State liquor store at Boswell.

Jack Milne, a member of the U. S. Air Corps, who spent a week visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Milne, left Friday evening for Texas, where he is at present stationed.

Killed by Train
Wheeling, W. Va., June 18. (AP)—Mrs. Raffaela Vaccaro, 63, of Cresapps, Marshall county, was killed today by a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train while gathering grass for chickens along the tracks.

ing his parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Milne, left Friday evening for Texas, where he is at present stationed.

"We are in a spell of depression psychology and under the influence of overwhelming propaganda. When this spell is broken, as it must be, the misuse of the White House brain-trust will end. Then under constructive leadership, intelligently interested in the public welfare and a better life for all, private enterprise will be revitalized, production will mount and employment will increase by millions."

"Let Mr. Roosevelt resign now, and tomorrow we can begin to rebuild a dynamic surging America!"

Miss Gretchen Baldwin, a student in Linden Hall, Little, Pa., arrived home yesterday to spend the vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baldwin. Accompanying Miss Baldwin was a school friend, Miss Edythe Schmidt, who will be her guest for several weeks.

Edward Leonard returned yesterday to his home in Macon, Georgia, following a visit with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Shipley.

Alleged Gunman Seen in Wisconsin

Hayward, Wis., June 18. (AP)—Bill Metcalfe, resort owner near Hayward, telephoned the sheriff's office about 6:30 p. m. (CST) he had seen Ray Olson, fugitive pursued for the slaying of two deputies, walking down a fire lane near his resort.

Twenty deputies were rushed to the area in automobiles. The resort is about seven miles east of the Chippewa river flowage.

The clue was the first to Olson's whereabouts since yesterday noon. An airplane, bloodhounds and 200 possemen had combed the area for the crack marksman in the island wilds.

District Attorney Jay C. Davis identified Olson—six foot, burly, thin-faced man with a broken nose, and about 35—as the man wanted for the shootings.

Deputies Carl Johnson, 37, and Fred Scott, 46, both Hayward tavernkeepers, were shot and killed yesterday morning as a posse drew up on Olson's hideaway on the west fork of the Chippewa.

Olson had been sought since Thursday when he drove away from County Traffic Officer James Hamblin, who had questioned him about license plates on Olson's car, which Hamblin said were taken from a stolen automobile.

heartedly to help his administration when he went into office. But his administration has proved a failure. It began with one hundred days of recovery and stimulation of private enterprise. Then it turned to a program of scarcity, to restriction of production, to regimentation, to control of everything and everybody from Washington, and finally it destroyed industry and began a spending program that now endangers our country.

No president ever had so great an opportunity. Congress, at the peril of undermining our democracy, granted him the almost unlimited emergency powers and money which he delegated powers to bring recovery, but he used that power and money and patronage to get more power and to build up a great self-perpetuating nationwide political machine.

"Enterprise Shackled"
"He shackled private enterprise with political controls. Now he invades banking and credit fields with proposals which such advisors as Mr. Berle admit will give the government growing control of banking and private business. He saps the nation's strength by over-taxation. While diverting the public mind with false promises of abundance and security, he has failed to bring re-employment to ten millions. The great middle class which earns and pays its own way and pays the taxes that support government now faces destruction."

"We cannot have four years more of fomented class antagonisms and of mounting deficits. We cannot have the nation's solvency further imperiled."

Seven Years of Waste
"We have had seven years of waste, seven years of unprecedented expenditures, seven years of failure to bring recovery. And during these seven years, twenty other nations, encouraging private enterprise, marched to prosperity with high employment and practically balanced budgets."

"Never was sound leadership more important than in this third crisis of our people's history. Instead of discussing a third term for President Roosevelt we should have in his place at the earliest possible moment someone with sound business sense and an understanding of our system of private enterprise upon which this nation has been built."

Must Make System Work

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH

How to have turf, not just grass

By DEAN HALL DAY

A garden enthusiast visiting a famous old English estate admired the wonderful turf of the lawns. "How does one go about growing such wonderful lawn," she asked an old gardener.

He doffed his cap and replied: "It's quite simple, m'am, you just cut it and roll it and water it regularly—and keep doing that for a hundred years."

Care must be given a lawn, however, if one is to have velvety turf, instead of just grass. In the case of a new lawn no cutting is necessary until the grass is about 2 inches high. Then use a sharp lawn mower, with the blades set 1 1/2 inches from the ground. This will "top" the new lawn, and this type of cutting should be repeated a week later.

The results of proper cutting and lack of cutting, are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Figure 1, illustrates the fact that the more often the grass is cut the more thickly it will grow, and if cut before it becomes too tall it will remain fine-bladed. This is the type of grass required for the making of a velvety turf. Figure 2 shows the result of permitting the grass to grow before cutting. The blades of grass become coarse, and the grass does not throw out side shoots and thicken into turf.

As rock garden plants, to be used in several different ways, Echeveria offer various interesting species. Several new introductions have been made recently, many of them excelling in special lines, so that there should be one species for every location. Propagation and culture are simple.

If junipers, boxbushes, spruces and other plants subject to red spider mites are sprayed frequently with cold water during hot dry spells these insects will be kept under control. A sulphur dust or oil spray will have to be used if the mites become too numerous.

Personality Props

By HELEN FOLLETT

IS PERSONALITY what you are or what you make others think you are? Never mind, it doesn't matter. If you are good-natured, have gracious manners, warmth and radiance, you won't mind out. You'll step high and you'll step handsome. You'll find the world exactly to your liking.

Many a charming personality is hidden away beneath a cloak of self-consciousness or shyness. That is a sad state of affairs, since self-consciousness makes a girl wretched. A good way to crawl out from under the clouds is to go on a beautifying binge. Get the latest coiffure. Find a make-up specialist who will work out a complexion plan. Get some sassy clothes, even if you have to snake money out of the savings bank. Tiptop appearance gives one courage and self-respect, and that's all the shy girl needs.

To look well is to feel buoyant and spirited. Look scrubby and you feel scrubby. Everyone should have a normal, pleasant social life, and that's not possible if one is beset with social fear.

If you are numbered among the hesitant, retiring contingent, try to cultivate a little vanity and conceit. They will help you find your place in the world. Those who win out in business or social life have a little bit of these qualities that are, after all, wholesome props and reliable supports. Do we hear boos from the beauty gallery? ## Better than a Third Term

IN A STATEMENT issued for this morning's newspapers, Publisher Frank Gannett, of New York, declares that, instead of urging President Roosevelt to run for a third term, people should call upon him to resign. The sooner he is out of office, Gannett believes, the better for the country.

The reasons advanced for the suggested call are as true as anything, and realization of them are growing among the people. The plea for the president's resignation will, of course, fall upon deaf ears, but it is no wild guess in predicting that, if the president should now quit office, there would be such an upsurge of confidence and such an upswing in business as would be truly remarkable.

Ikkes in Reverse

SECRETARY IKKES is quoted as stating that those who oppose a third term for President Roosevelt "didn't howl when some suggested a third term for Calvin Coolidge."

Somebody should refresh the secretary's mental apparatus with a bit of American history. Objectors did protest when a third term was suggested for Coolidge, as the adoption of a resolution by the federal Senate at the time attests.

There were various other occasions when such protests were made. George Washington started it in the infancy of the republic. When Gen. Grant ran for a third consecutive Republican nomination in 1880 the House of Representatives adopted a condemnatory resolution.

It is of interest to note that while Democrats were chiefly involved in such protests directed at Republican presidents, many Democrats are now supporting the movement though in some instances not openly for reasons of safety. In fact, a Democratic senator has introduced an anti-third-term resolution in the Senate designed for Mr. Roosevelt and has let it be known that he is hell-bent on forcing it to a vote. He, of course, happens to be on the New Deal black list.

In view of long manifested public sentiment against the third-term idea, Secretary Ikkes should have turned his utterance in reverse. It is those who are promoting the thing that are really indulging in "political hokum."

Lending Folly

AS WELL as by far the biggest borrower, the federal government is by far the biggest lender in the country.

The rise of the total into billions and extensions of loaning in a score of directions represent a major New Deal recovery expedient. Agriculture, industry and finance, home building and home mortgages, etc., received support at critical times; but there is no division of business opinion worth consideration on the proposition that the government should be working out of the lending business.

Hardly a case can be found in the long list which was not labeled "temporary" at the outset and which is not labeled "permanent" now by the Roosevelt administration.

There arises now the plan of putting the government into the field of commercial loans, small and large. The end of that cannot be foreseen in the totals eventually assumed, in bad risks likely to be taken, in the size of the army of federal employees required to operate such a system or in the effects of yoking up the government with private business of all descriptions.

Banks and private financial institutions of all sorts are overloaded with funds they want to lend and cannot lend. Political pressure is constantly exerted, with success from time to time, to force the interest rate on government loans lower, narrowing the margin for the profitable conduct of private lending. Highly desirable though the lowest reasonable interest rates are, rates still lower mean starved banks which, as one of their expedients, resort to assessments against the small depositors who must keep their cash for running expenses somewhere.

While President Roosevelt says he has not approved the new loaning scheme, he sees attractions in it. Enlightened by experience with panacea after panacea, "little business" is not likely to be fooled. Informed eyes, looking back over the last few years, readily see another patch being cut out to put in the crazy quilt.

A Salutory Check

BY APPROVING the May bill, which would drastically curb the socialistic activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority, the House of Representatives in Washington, as observed by the New York Herald Tribune, struck one of the most vigorous blows delivered on behalf of private property in the last six years.

The May bill is the House version of the Norris bill, which was passed by the Senate to authorize the TVA to issue $100,000,000 in government-guaranteed obligations. The House measure reduces the authorization from $100,000,000 to $61,500,000; provides that the bonds be non-Treasury guaranteed, and restricts the activities of the Authority in so far as they are concerned with the generation, transmission and distribution of electric power, to the area in which those activities are now being carried out or are under contract to be carried out, and to certain areas in northern Alabama and northern Mississippi.

In addition to these restrictions on the activities of the Authority, the May bill requires that the United States be reimbursed for the amounts which it has expended for the electric power properties of the TVA properly allocable to the generation, transmission and distribution of power. To this end the Authority would be required to issue bonds to the Secretary of the Treasury to cover the cost, and to pay off the bonds over a period of not more than fifty years.

The measure provides, further, that accounts and disbursements of the TVA be brought under the jurisdiction of the general accounting office in the same manner as are all other agencies of the government, except that the Comptroller General would be authorized to allow credit when it is shown to be reasonably necessary to the accomplishment of the work authorized to be done.

Finally, the TVA would be forbidden to make any payments, other than those already being made, to compensate states and municipalities for losses in taxes resulting from the fact that a government project has superseded a private project in that region. If the TVA wishes to compensate the states and municipalities for such tax losses in the future, this bill proposes it shall do so "by providing that power consumers pay enough for their electricity to offset such loss."

The Craze for Laws

ONE of the prime fallacies of the day, and it has obtained for a number of years, is that every problem affecting trade or industry can be solved by legislation.

Men seem to be obsessed with the belief that every complexity in industry has its remedy in some special and specific legislative enactment. Whenever an industry, even though it is as general as the farming industry, becomes distressed or beset with complications, its agents hasten to Congress for relief.

It has, it is true, been possible to help the farmers by tariff protection and by special enactments enlarging credit opportunities. But as a general proposition the take-it-to-Congress habit has resulted in a mass of class and special enactments which not only have failed to bring permanent remedies, but have prevented the enactment of salutary general measures and helped to pile up the public debt.

Trade and industry have laws of their own, and these laws will not yield to statutory enactments. They are natural laws, inherent in trade and industry. They are amenable to certain conditions and the force of these conditions affect them visibly. But laws of Congress cannot repeal or replace these laws under which those conditions arise. When in operation, these natural laws must be allowed to take their course. They are as natural, definable and visible as the immutable laws of nature itself.

Instead of waiting patiently for these laws to assert their influence, we have become accustomed, at the first symptoms, to fly to the bosom of Congress, there to invoke statutory remedy. And look at what a mess too often results. As a result of this policy, many American industries have been lashed around and around in a circle of vicious and costly expedients, futile and demoralizing in effect.

The man at the next desk says he knows a barber who gave up his job because, he believed, there was no future in it. It seems he read somewhere that all mankind within 1,000,000 years will be bald.

In Italy, where kids are organized in black shirt brigades, the youngsters must know their four R's—reading, 'riting, 'rithmetic and revolver practice.

The average motorist is one who brags how accurate his speedometer is except when a motorcycle cop looks at it.

It's a smart man who knows the only way to get the last word in an argument with a woman is by apologizing.

Which Side of the Menu?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Two kinds of human beings come into restaurants, take off their overcoats, hang up their hats, sit down and order food.

One kind looks at the left hand side of the menu, the other concentrates on the right hand side. We are assuming, you know, that there's money in the pocket and the man at the table can afford whatever he wishes.

The first patron is thinking of his healthy hunger. He intends to enjoy this meal to the fullest. So he orders what he likes. Eating is one of the pleasures of life and as long as he can enjoy his food, he will do so.

If he wants a green salad fixed just so, he will have a green salad! If his mouth is watering for a thick steak—waiter, bring a thick steak! If he craves another cup of coffee—waiter, fill it up again! Life is for men, not men for life. So tuck in the napkin and watch a man eat.

But the other fellow is not thinking about food—he is thinking about cost. He'd like one sort of steak, but this other kind is 15 cents cheaper and just as nourishing. Thousand island dressing is very fine, but it costs a good bit more; so why not order French dressing? He'd like a dessert, but the trouble with most of us is that we eat too much, and a man should rise from the table just a bit hungry. No dessert tonight, waiter. Bring the check—and don't expect too much of a tip.

So that's the way we are, good patrons of the hostelry of life! Some eat heartily and do not ask the cost. Some count the cost and take the fine edge off appetite and enjoyment.

Some live to regret what we have done. Some live longer and forget what they HAVEN'T done. Ask me which of us have the profoundest regrets and I shall not hesitate. . . I know the answer. Right or wrong, the man who orders from the left hand side of the menu gets the most out of the long repeat and lives best. And the cautious accountant who looks more often upon the price side of life comes wistfully, half defiantly, to his long-shadowed days. Somewhere along the way he has missed the savor of life. He has attended the feast, but has failed the joy of it.

Poor devil, poor us, if we follow his poor example!

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

Public interest in the "Masterpieces of Art" exhibit at the New York World's fair is growing steadily. This has surprised shrewd appraisers of popular trends, for which a world's fair is an ideal laboratory. Art has been traditionally slow on the uptake among exposition crowds. Unfortunately, in the public mind, art galleries seem to have a connotation of aching feet and of sternly imposed decorum and reverence under which a plain citizen is apt to become restless and bored.

This has been particularly true of America. We had a continent to conquer and we have tended to leave such trimmings as mere art to the women and children. That story has been told more than once in the history of nations. Up to the time when Commodore Perry opened Japan to the Western world, artists and poets were highly esteemed and artistic skill won high honors.

Catching step with the nineteenth-century, industrial epoch, Japan, almost officially, rated art as "something with which women but not warriors, business men and statesmen may be occupied." Many modern Japanese writers have said in effect:

"Praise us for our smokestacks and our battleships, but not for our trifling prints and poems."

But in recent years, Japan has been buying up, here and elsewhere, the prints of Hokusai, Hiroshige and the Toyokinis, having discovered that their value mounts swiftly in other countries. "Art is long and life is fleeting," and also fleeting, much more fleeting than great pictures, are dynasties and systems and empires.

Through Many Dynasties

Surviving and gaining renown through the passing of many dynasties are such pictures as Goya's "Don Manuel Osorio," Bruegel's "The Wedding Dance," Titian's "Venus and Adonis," Van Eyck's "Madonna and Child," and Vermeer's "The Milkmaid"—all included in the "Masterpieces of Art" Collection.

Art exhibits and lectures on art in this country frequently have been pretty stuffy in the past. This one seems different. Lecturers and guides are casual and human and there's nothing "precious" about it. And it certainly would seem to be all to the good to have this superb exhibit in the main flux of run-of-the-mill citizens at a great world's fair. The great drawback to popular appreciation of art has been the presumption that it didn't have much to do with life, or with anything particularly important.

Many Deeply Involved

That is elaborately disproved by just a glance at the great artists of history. Many of them—most of them, in fact—were as deeply involved in great affairs of their days as a go-getting millionaire of our day. One could cite Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Rubens, Goya, Hogarth, Turner and Daumier at random, and enough more to fill the rest of this space if necessary. In Renaissance Florence, artists were featured in all the main events, in the two-century struggle between democracy and absolutism. The artists weren't always on the side of the angels, but whenever they stepped in swinging, and whenever their words and their works made hot news, that was a time of national vitality, of aspiration and a new outreach of the creative spirit.

Fair of 1893 a Stimulus

I don't think anybody has ever made any adequate estimate of the tremendous stimulus to the art of living which came from the Chicago World's fair of 1893. To masses of people, this fair brought the first view of great world masterpieces of art. Forty-six years is a short span for the cultural growth of a nation. In this brief stretch we have run with seven-league boots over domains traversed through centuries in the past.

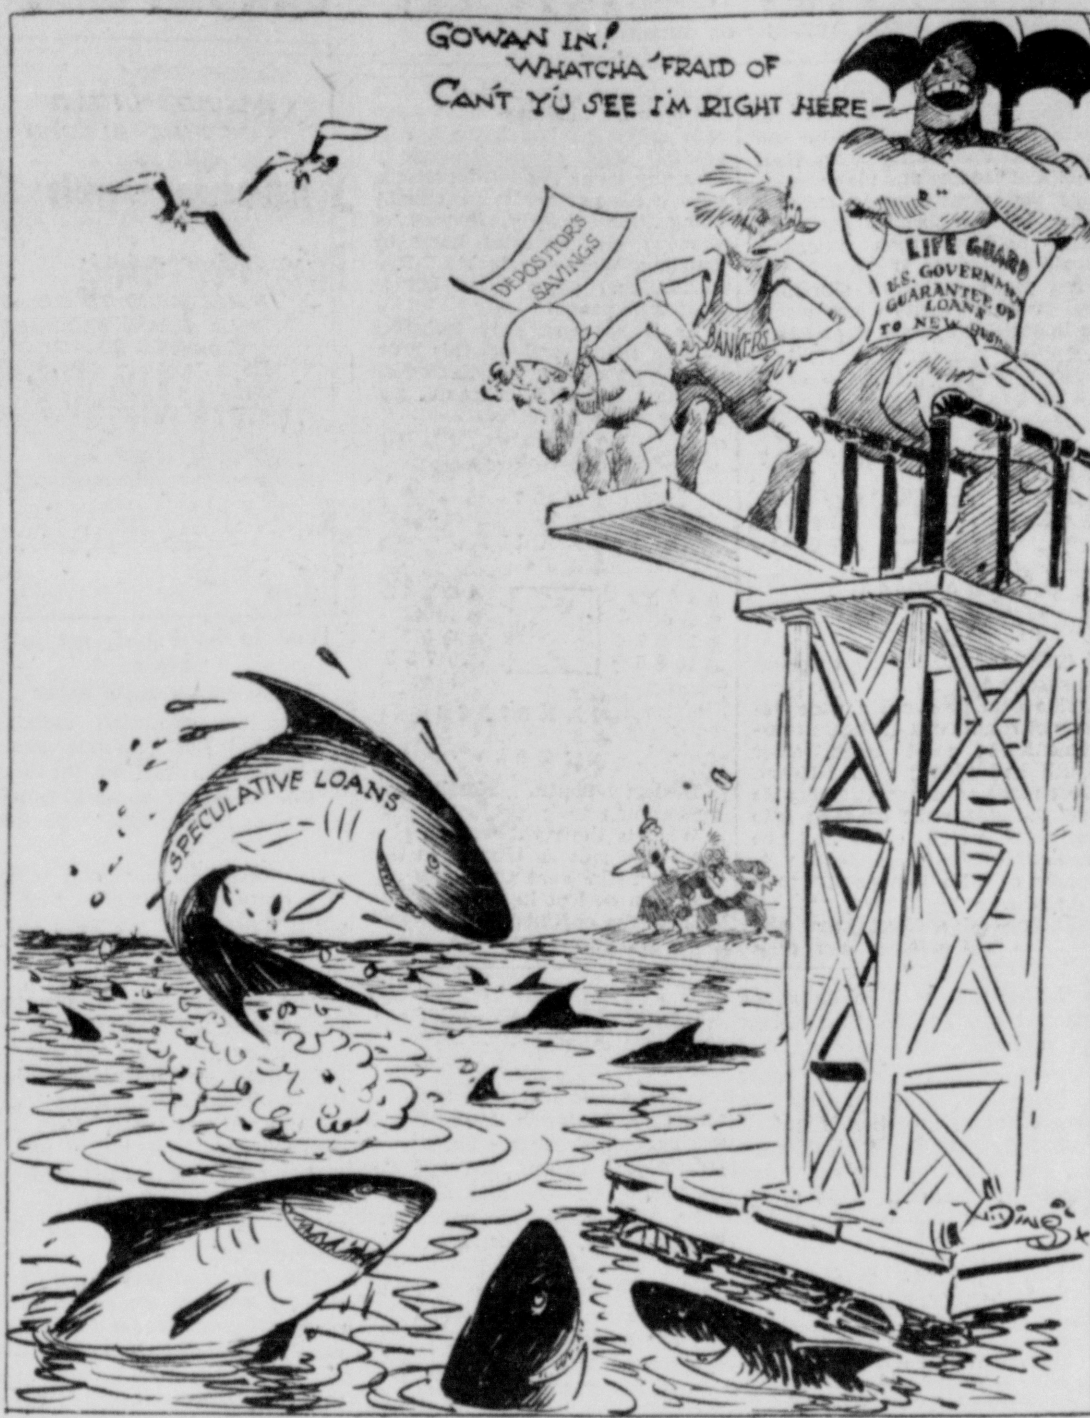

The later fairs at St. Louis and San Francisco, Philadelphia and

THE NEW SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR

Doubts Are Held on Effect of Mead Loan Bill on Men Already in Business

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, June 18—A Senate subcommittee is holding hearings on the Mead bill to provide government-guaranteed loans to small business men. The bill, if enacted, would work this way:

A man would like to go into business—start a retail store, or a small manufacturing business—any kind of business. Or, a man having a small business would like to enlarge it.

He goes to the local bank. In some cases the bank would lend him the money. At all times, banks do this, when the circumstances are right. Just now banks are especially eager to loan money, for they have much of it on hand, and they can only make a profit by lending it.

Long Term Loans Rare

But in the present case the bank may not wish to make the loan. For refusal, the bank may have any of many reasons. The loan may be of a sort which existing law forbids banks to make. By law or custom, banks rarely loan a man money to start a new business—bank loans are usually confined to businesses which are already going concerns, where the owner already has a plant or a store, and has money of his own in the business.

Also, banks rarely make long-term loans—usually six months, or some such brief period, is the limit. Usually bank loans are on stocks on a dealer's shelves, which the borrower can sell in a few months, and thus pay off the loan; or on raw materials which will be manufactured and sold in a few months.

For any of these reasons, the bank may not wish to make the loan in the present case. Or they may be reluctant for another reason. They may feel that the man is not a good business man. After sizing him up, and inquiring into his record, the bank may feel he would not be a success in business.

Is Sent to RFC

For whatever reason, the bank says to the man: "We can't make the loan, but you go around to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation." That is the government agency for lending money and guaranteeing loans.

The man goes to RFC, and tells his story and his hopes. RFC is not required to take care of him. The Mead bill gives RFC plenty of reasons to refuse, plenty of "outs." RFC is given discretion to "determine what constitutes a business purpose." And RFC can set up regulations which would bar any kind of case it does not like to take.

But suppose RFC decides to handle the case. In that event, RFC, under the Mead bill does these things:

RFC tells the bank to make the loan.

Ninety Per Cent Guaranteed

RFC guarantees that if the loan goes bad, RFC will make good any loss, up to ninety per cent of the loan. (This means 90 per cent of both the principal and any accrued interest.) That is, the bank cannot lose more than 10 per cent of what it lends.

The bank must not charge more than four per cent interest. (There is a further small charge, less than one per cent, which the borrower must pay to RFC, for an insurance fund to take care of losses.) The loan may be for any period up to ten years.

Obviously, under the Mead bill,

if it passes, many men will seek to go into business who are not regarded by the banks as good business men. Much depends on the judgment and caution of RFC. With poor judgment, it can make many loans that will go bad, start many men in business who will fail.

In RFC's past operations, in other fields, it has had remarkably good judgment. It's head, Jesse Jones, is one of the ablest men in public life. He is able to "size up" a prospective borrower's character and circumstances and prospects. But if the Mead bill passes and an army of prospective small borrowers descends on Mr. Jones, his difficulties may become great. The pressure of politics will be strong. Persons ambitious to go into business will clamor at their Congressmen to interfere with RFC.

See Dreams Come True

The purpose of the Mead bill is to create more business. Superficially, it ought to. Tens of thousands of men who would like to be in business will see in the Mead bill a way to make their dreams come true. But the Mead bill, like many New Deal measures, may fail to foresee a future effect.

Consider the effect of the Mead bill on men already in business. These are the men who already can borrow as much as they need from the banks—and who are careful not to borrow more than they can use successfully, and pay back in due course. These are the men who compose the body of American business. These men can be counted on to expand their business just as rapidly as conditions warrant.

Subsidized Competition

Consider one of these as he observes the Mead bill. He is, let us say, a retail dealer in a small town. He takes care of all the customers the community has, does all the business that the conditions make possible. He now sees that some one may start competition with him, and divide the available business—some one not equipped to carry on business prudently, some one who is only enabled to go into business by virtue of a government-guaranteed loan.

In this condition, is the existing business man likely to expand? Will he not be deterred by apprehension? Will the Mead bill add one more to the many existing fears caused by the New Deal which now keep the whole field of business in a state of semiparalysis?

O'Mahoney Is Taken for Ride

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York City, June 18—Just about the cleverest propaganda in the world has been the management of Senator O'Mahoney's Temporary Economic Committee.

The testimony before this committee has been better reported and less noticed than any investigation of our time. The senator from Wyoming is one of the most persuasive gents in the upper House. If even a man was taken for a ride, Joe O'Mahoney would be any such "investigation" as is now in progress, he had proposed a bill for the federal licensing of any corporation in interstate commerce. It sounds simple. But read the bill. The senator is a forthright fellow and by that token a swell set-up for such managers as Benny Cohen and Tommy Corcoran. His pious poses are all on the surface. M. W. Cohen's never are.

O'Mahoney's original bill practically delivered American business gagged and bound to federal regulation. The White House inner circle convinced him that much propaganda must be prepared before such a law could be passed. Hence the O'Mahoney Economic committee. But the senator's simple purpose was to be controlled by strong and clever propagandists such as Lubin Frank and Leon Henderson.

Unprecedented Commission

It was a commission of a sort never before known in American history. It was only secondarily a congressional committee. Its steering is done by such scarcely disguised Cohen stooges as Leon Henderson and Jerome Frank. Its obvious purpose is now clearly revealed as the building of a Commission on which can be launched a Communist or Fascist control of American business. At strategic intervals such a renovator as Mr. Berle is pushed in to put in the record of the real purpose.

The senator, who is chairman, is being daily publicized as a conscientious Irishman. So he is—but with a purpose constantly guided by much more subtle minds.

The counsel for the committee is a man named Nehemkis—a Cohen product—and if there ever was a clever Cohen-wright, he is it. The best minds in American business—those not to mention Congress—are being taken for a daily ride by the cleverness of some of the most revolutionary influences in the United States.

Carefully Directed

Far be it from me to assume the role of a political Paul Revere. But it is my business to read and comment on the passing show. What is being jimmied into the national record before the O'Mahoney committee isn't given the attention it deserves. It is carefully directed and is the most potent self-serving build-up we have yet seen. It is a publically subsidized prelude to economic revolution. Such collectivists as Jerome Frank and Leon Henderson are getting away from it—almost without challenge.

They—with their much wider industrial experience—have taken such intense, earnest and innocent bucolics as Senator O'Mahoney, as completely as Grant took Richmond. Their purpose is as revolutionary as Hitler's and they are making an excellent use of their puppets at that committee and the general indifference of the people of the United States, as the European totalitarianers ever did to lay the ground for a Nazi-Fascist federal control of almost every normal activity of American life—whether in labor, agriculture or industry.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Garner after Eight Years

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

Mr. John Nance Garner is being spoken of prominently as a prospective Democratic presidential nominee. Mr. Garner has served since the beginning of the Roosevelt regime as vice-president of the United States. He and his associates will have had eight years to correct abuses of which they were most vocal in 1932. What were their wrongs to be righted? Certainly, from the Garner viewpoint, nothing could speak with greater authority on this subject than a speech Mr. Garner made in accepting the vice-presidential nomination in 1932. Here is a pertinent excerpt from that speech:

"There are just two things to this government as I see it. The first is to safeguard the lives and properties of our people; the second is to insure that each of us have a chance to work out his destiny according to his talents. In my opinion nearly all of our civic troubles are the consequence of government's departure from its legitimate functions. . . . Government is not a pedagogue, nor a parson, nor a pious piper. . . . Had it not been for the steady encroachment of federal government on the states, we perhaps would not have the present spectacle of the people rushing to Washington to see right whatever goes wrong."

In the light of what has happened since the day that speech was made, it will be interesting to hear what Mr. Garner has to say in 1940, whether in the role of a presidential candidate, in that of Mr. Roosevelt's running mate for a third time, or in the plain garb of Mr. Garner, Democrat.

Garrett County Ideal Spot for Vacationists and Tourists

Many Activities Arranged for Summer Months

Mt. Lake Park, Deep Creek Lake and Other Sections Are Attractive

Oakland, June 18—Garrett county still has strong appeal to vacationists and tourists, and the activities planned for the summer months indicate thousands will visit here the next three or four months. When the mode of the vacationist has changed, early in the century, the summer activity on the mountain top remained at a standstill for a number of years, but there are many evidences now that the modern methods of travel, along with the advantages the county already had to offer, plus Deep Creek Lake, are bringing a "renewed interest" to this area.

While there are quite a number of summer visitors who still come up early and spend the entire season here and at Mountain Lake Park, the majority of visitors use their automobiles and drive to this area on week-ends and for special occasions and holidays.

One Sunday last year it was estimated that over 15,000 visitors were on the mountain top to attend a beauty contest on the lake, see the Swallow Falls area and to participate in a camp meeting at Mt. Lake Park.

Following the reassessment of real estate and improvements made there on, it was declared that valuation of property around Deep Creek Lake had increased $80,000 during 1938, much of this due to the erection of new cottages and other forms of construction. There are now nearly 300 cottages on the lake shore which are occupied most of the summer.

Sailboat races are held weekly and commercial places along the lake and in Oakland are continually improving their properties for the purpose of attracting visitors.

Summer camps have their part in making this area more widely known. Camps for boys, for girls and for adults are held annually at Thousand Acres, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Winslow. Their season opens this year July 1 at Camp Minnetoska and Whitehorn, for girls and boys, located near Burton and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen, of Baltimore, attract about seventy-five campers each year who remain until early in September. These camps will be open about July 1.

The opening of cabins by the Forest Department in the Savage and Potomac forests is calculated to attract many, while Muddy Creek and Swallow Falls will continue to justify their quota each week. Since the CCC enrollees made this spot more accessible, many hundreds visit it each week.

Besides the climate, pure air and one hundred percent pure water, with gorgeous mountain scenery on every hand which attract people here, there are other activities expected to assist materially in this.

A bathing beauty contest, boat regatta and water carnival are scheduled to be held at Stone Tavern and Cabin Lodge, Deep Creek Lake, Sunday, July 16. A peace jubilee is scheduled for McComas Beach, Deep Creek Lake, July 2, followed with a week's program of the Mountain Chorus Festival at Mountain Lake Park, culminating in the various choir contests on Sunday, July 9.

At Mountain Lake Park the Interdenominational School of Missions will be held July 19 to 26, which brings to the mountain a large number of interested young people and many older ones.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department is planning a week's celebration the week of July 3 to 8. Oakland's municipal golf course, opened last year, is continuing to attract more and more people and is open daily throughout the season with a competent pro in charge.

Fishing Season in Garrett Is Longer

Trout fishing exists in all sections of Maryland except in parts of Garrett county, at sundown June 30, and the fishing season for bass will then be opened.

The special exceptions in trout fishing are in force in Garrett county because the water here is cooler and a longer time is required for the fish to become active and self-protective following the spawning season.

It will be lawful to fish for trout in Deep Creek Lake until October 1, and in the Youghiogheny River and Swallow Falls until November 1. The bass season which opens Saturday, July 1, will continue until midnight, November 30, except in Deep Creek Lake, where it will close October 31. The lake is closed to fishing from November 1 to April 1.

Two Senators To Speak

Baltimore, W. Va., June 18. (AP)—United States senators and at least one mayor will appear on the annual convention program of the State Moose Association July 19-20 at Mountain Lake Park.

THEY DO BIT IN TRAFFIC DRIVE

The two children pictured on either side of the poster were the models used by the artist who created the above traffic safety campaign poster in Frankfort, Ind. Police officials say the unique sign has materially lessened the speeding on this particular street.

Thomas Campbell Named President By Bruce Alumni

J. C. Messner and John W. Fisher Are Principal Speakers

Westernport, June 18.—Thomas Campbell was elected president of the Bruce high school Alumni association at the annual business meeting Friday night.

Other officers named were: Dr. James Ward, first vice president; Okey Michaels, second vice president; Miss Evelyn Biggs, secretary; Mrs. Eileen Campbell, assistant secretary; Miss Mary Hanna, treasurer; Allan Miller, William Beck, Elwood Comp, Mrs. Louis Hicks, Mrs. Robert Derham, Mrs. Charles E. Dellinger, Mrs. D. P. Whitworth and Ray Wilt, executive committee.

Miss Mary Hanna was appointed chairman of the attendance record committee and Mrs. Robert Derham was named chairman of the flower fund committee.

Prof. J. C. Messner, superintendent of schools at Harrison, Del., who was principal at Bruce from 1921-26, and Principal John W. Fisher, were guest speakers. Horace P. Whitworth gave the address of welcome and Bernard Pazenbaker, president of the class of 1939, for which the banquet is held, made the response.

In behalf of the Alumni association, Norris Bruce presented a gift to Miss Anne Wagner, who this year retired from the faculty of Bruce high school after teaching for forty-three years in the county schools.

In recognition of an almost perfect attendance record, having been absent from school only three days in twelve years, Norma Dayton, of the graduating class, also was presented with a gift from the association.

Toastmaster Whitworth was in charge of the memorial service for the deceased alumni members and Julian G. Patrick gave the invocation.

Following the banquet, a dance was held from 9 to 1 o'clock in the school auditorium.

During the afternoon, a reunion of the classes of 1921-27 was held at Hammond Street school, where luncheon was served to approximately fifty guests. Talks were made by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Messner, Miss Nellie Dowling, Miss Mary Hanna and members of the reunion classes. Homer Michael acted as toastmaster.

A tribute was paid to the late O. H. Bruce, principal of the Westernport school for forty-five years, and a wreath was placed on his grave in Philo cemetery.

Welfare Club Elects

Mrs. Joseph Friedman was elected president of the Social Welfare club of Westernport and Luke for her third term at the annual business meeting and dinner Friday evening at Layman's, near Frostburg.

Mrs. Virginia Wiltson was elected first vice president; Miss Ladessa Foley, second vice president; Miss Dorothy Dancer, secretary; and Mrs. John Dick, treasurer.

Mrs. Friedman, Mrs. Norris Bruce and Mrs. Dick were presented with gifts. Following the business session a social hour was held. Twenty-one members attended the meeting.

Class Anniversary

Friendship Bible class of the Church of the Brethren observed its thirtieth anniversary Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Fike, Piedmont. It also was the seventeenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lory Dove.

The program included a solo by Mrs. Harry Pence and a reading by Miss Ruth Fike. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Lory Dove and Mrs. Harry Cosner.

Warnick Child Drowns

Gordon Phillip Warnick, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Warnick of near Essex, a suburb of Baltimore, was drowned Saturday morning in the Sus river.

The child fell off a fishing pier which was located in the back yard of his home and drowned in six feet of water.

Mrs. Warnick said the boy had been playing alone and when she called him and he failed to answer she started a search but could not locate the child. She called Mr. Warnick and he found the boy in the water and recovered the body.

The body was brought here to the home of the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Braithwaite, 213 Wood street. The boy's parents are former Westernport residents.

Grantsville Woman Is Taken by Death

Grantsville, June 18.—Mrs. John W. Folk, 64, died at her home here at 12:45 o'clock yesterday morning, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Folk had not been well during the past year and underwent an operation four months ago. Although she spent many weeks in Cumberland and Meyersdale hospitals it seemed nothing could be done to enable her to recover.

Allena Jane Folk was born October 2, 1875, a daughter of Sampson and Barbara (Engle) Bittinger. December 24, 1891, she married Christian M. Beachy, who died in February, 1906. She married John W. Folk, at Springs, Pa., September 28, 1918. Mrs. Folk resided at Springs for a number of years and moved to Grantsville with her family about eighteen years ago. For many years she was a member of the Maple Glen Church of the Brethren, near Salisbury, Pa., and was well known throughout this and adjoining communities. She has many friends who will regret to learn of her death.

Mrs. Folk is survived by the following children, born of her first marriage: Arthur E. Beachy, Philadelphia; Earl E. Beachy, Zanesville, O.; Herbert E. Beachy, Kalona, Ia.; Frank E. Beachy, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Harry J. Bender, Grantsville, who has cared for her during her illness. Also surviving are Mrs. A. A. Maust, Gettysburg, Pa.; Roy Folk, Sharpsville, Pa.; Harold Folk, Fredens, Pa.; and Enos L. Folk, Grantsville, all step-children; the following brothers and sisters, Albert Bittinger and Miss Carrie Bittinger, Uniontown, Pa.; Mrs. G. A. Frantz, Nallen, W. Va.; Mrs. Charles Ammerman, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Russell Walters, Gormanville, W. Va.; Frank Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Folk, 1818 N. Main street, with Rev. J. C. Messner officiating. Burial will be in the Grantsville cemetery.

Vacation Bible School To Open This Morning

Frostburg Council Federated Church Women Will Be in Charge

Frostburg, June 18.—Frostburg's second annual Daily Vacation Bible school will open for three weeks Monday, June 26, for the instruction of children between the ages of five and fourteen years. Classes will be conducted in the auditorium and class rooms of Beall high school under sponsorship of the Council of Federated Church Women of Frostburg, with Miss Kathleen Crowe in general charge. Classes will be conducted daily from 9 to 11:30 a. m., with Miss Betsy Rankin as a full time instructor with assistants from the various churches in the community.

Instructors are Miss Virginia Blank and Miss Marie Seifarth, Zion Evangelical church and Miss Gertrude Carter, Salem Reformed church. Other assistants will be announced as soon as they are selected by the respective churches. An appeal was made for support of the movements in all local Sunday schools today.

Members of the federated church women sponsoring the school are as follows: Miss Thelma Powell, Grace Methodist Episcopal church; Mrs. William J. Elvin, Presbyterian; Mrs. Bray Thompson, Church of the Brethren; Mrs. Catherine Greening, Congregational; Mrs. Clara Walbert, Zion Evangelical and Reformed; Miss Nan Jeffries, First Methodist Episcopal; Mrs. Marshall, St. Paul's Lutheran; Mrs. Charles Harbel, Reformed; Mrs. Emily Stewart, First English Baptist, and Mrs. W. D. Reese, Mt. Zion Baptist Memorial church.

Lions Representative

A representative of the extension bureau of Lions International was here during the past week interviewing local business and professional men with a view of organizing a Lion's Club in Frostburg. He contacted Clifton D. Jeffries, local jeweler, and A. T. Holsing, chain store manager, as a preliminary step towards interviewing leading business and professional men not associated with the Roary Club which is the town's only service club. Other interviews will be held this week.

Play Grounds To Open

The play grounds at the Frostburg State Teachers College will open Monday for a summer program of supervised play for children up to sixteen years of age. Leaders will be in charge from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. from Monday until Friday each week. Those attending will be taught useful handicrafts, group singing, folk dancing, athletics and games.

Each week a special event will be held and the winners will be awarded blue ribbons. Special prizes will be presented at the end of the season to those with the greatest number of blue ribbons.

Recreational leaders in charge of the program urge parents to enroll their children in this project which was conducted last year with much success.

Senator Holt Charges WPA Officials With Misuse of Funds

Beckley, W. Va., June 18 (AP)—The youthful Senator Rush Holt went home today after a whirl at courthouse speaking in which he charged WPA officials with "brazen, corrupt misuse of relief funds."

A big throng gathered at the Jackson county courthouse and stood outside while Holt replied to what he termed a "personal attack" by a newspaper and asserted:

"I charged politics and waste in WPA in 1936 xxx the charges are being confirmed by committees of the United States Senate and House of Representatives."

Holt listed county-by county figures, charging that salary increases given WPA "bosses" would keep hundreds of workers on the payroll.

Business Women To Meet This Week

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 18. (AP)—Delegates to the nineteenth annual meeting of Zonta International will settle down quickly Thursday to determine whether married women should work.

The question is a principal topic booked for discussion at the three-day meeting of the association of business and professional women executives.

A highlight will be a forum on recent legislation to be conducted by former president Dora E. Neum of Rochester, N. Y.

Down also for discussion is a much different topic—aeronautical engineering.

In that, however, delegates will get back to the women-in-business angle, determining for themselves whether the field should be limited to men.

The women will discuss also whether the Amelia Earhart memorial fund established a year ago will be extended beyond the scope of a revolving loan fund to include aeronautical research.

Harry Collins Spillman of New York, the only man booked for a speech, will give his views on "fortifying democracy at the base."

Dorothy McSparran Arnold, Dean of Women at New York University, will speak. Juvenile Judge Camille Kelley of Memphis, Tenn., will address the annual banquet.

Dr. Helen Pearce of Wilamette University, Salem, Ore., is the international president.

Two Trainmen Are Injured in Wreck

Barboursville, W. Va., June 18. (AP)—Two trainmen were injured and freight traffic blocked on the Logan division of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway today when a locomotive and 10 cars of a slow moving coal train were derailed in the Barboursville yards.

Trainmen said the wreck apparently resulted from a defective switch. The engine of the 137-car train, west bound from Logan, left the rails near the yard office and toppled on its side tearing up 200 feet of double track. Four cars immediately behind the engine were telescoped against the locomotive, dumping tons of coal about the wreckage.

Engineer I. F. Chapman of Russell, Ky., suffered a wrenched neck and W. T. Carter, fireman, of Russell, suffered a bruised leg. Both men were released after hospital treatment.

Harry E. Webb, Huntington division superintendent, estimated damage at $20,000 and said an immediate investigation would be made. Wreck trains from Huntington and Logan worked today clearing away the wreckage and Webb said the line would be clear by tomorrow. Passenger trains were detoured around the yards.

Wat, Beall Lane, and other local relatives.

Mrs. John Durst, Ormond street, was received at the Miners hospital Saturday morning with a fracture of the left leg, received in a fall.

Miss Pearl Thomas and Miss Mary Howie, of the nursing staff, Miners hospital, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blocher are spending their vacation in New York and Canada.

Miss Iva A. Plummer, teacher at Grahamstown school, has gone to Harrisonburg, Va., to take a summer course at Madison College.

Miss Joan Cook has gone to Atlantic City to spend the summer. Miss Mary Jane Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hill, Broadway, local dance teacher and a 1938 graduate of Beall high school, will leave Monday for Los Angeles, Calif., to reside at the home of her uncle, Dwight Hill, a former resident, Miss Hill will study dancing in Los Angeles.

She was recently employed at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, where she was in charge of the floor show.

Mrs. J. P. George, Baltimore, the former Miss Nell Jones, this city, came here last week to visit with her father, George Jones, East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dorn, Jr., left today for Chicago where Mr. Dorn, a commercial teacher at Beall high school, will take a summer course at the University of Chicago. He will also teach at the summer session of Lexington College, Lexington, Ky., after he completes his work in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Howat and daughter, Misses Margaret and Jean, Munhall, Pa., former residents of this city, spent several days with Mr. Howat's sister, Miss Agnes Howat, this city.

In Italian museums you must not tip attendants. Those caught doing so will be requested to leave the premises.

Two Tucker Men Held on Charge Of Robbery

Happy Couples Are United in Pretty Church Weddings

CHURCH BRIDE--Mrs. Layton Morris Nauman, the former Jane Barbara Golden, whose marriage was beautifully solemnized Saturday noon at Emmanuel Episcopal church.

Nauman-Golden Ceremony Is Beautiful Event at Emmanuel Episcopal Church

With the Rev. David C. Clark, rector, officiating, the wedding of Miss Jane Barbara Golden, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Shriver, 417 Washington street, and Layton Morris Nauman, son of Mrs. Layton Morris Nauman, of Stamford, Conn., took place at noon Saturday at Emmanuel Episcopal church. It was a beautiful event.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, James Causten Shriver, Miss Dolly Golden, daughter of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Stewart Farnham, of Larchmont, N. Y., was Mr. Nauman's best man and the ushers were Robert Ruddy Havill, of Valhalla, N. Y.; Upshur Lowndes and Randolph Millholland, Jr.

The bride wore a bouffant gown of white imported cordnet net, with a basque waist of Victorian days, in slim contrast to the full skirt and sleeves. Her long veil fell gracefully from a tiny tricorn of white lilies.

She carried a white prayer book. The maid-of-honor wore a dream girl gown of white point de'esprit with a shug bask waistline and full sleeves. The spreading skirt had an enormous flounce stiffened at the hem. Her picture hat was of white straw trimmed with heavy blue velvet streamers. She carried a bouquet of blue corn-flowers and yellow roses.

Mrs. Shriver wore a flowing gown of sandringham green with contrasting duobonet accessories. She wore a white orchid at her shoulder.

Mrs. Nauman was gowned in pale lavender with duobonet accessories, and wore a shoulder orchid.

The chancel was decorated with St. Joseph lilies and palms. Mrs. W. H. Oswald, organist, played the traditional wedding marches.

The out of town guests who attended the ceremony were Misses Alice Barbara and Jane Nauman, sisters of the bridegroom and Judson Todd, Greenwich, Conn.; Robert Le Bosquet, White Plains, N. Y.; John Coblenz, Hagerstown; Frank Bowman, Warrenton, Va.; Phil Klevan, Altoona, Pa.; Miss Alma Simeron and Miss Alma Pudeisi, Washington, D. C.; Drew M. Johnston, Jr., Pittsburgh, and Miss Nancy Spear, Connellsville, Pa.

Immediately following, a reception was given at the Fort Cumberland hotel for the immediate families and a few close friends.

After the reception, the couple left for Provincetown, Mass. The bride wore a traveling ensemble of navy and white, with white accessories. The couple will reside in Hagerstown upon their return.

Cozad-Roberts Wedding Is Pretty Morning Event At St. Mark's Church

Mrs. Margaret Wetherwax Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Wetherwax, 518 Marietta street and Ployd V. Cozad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Cozad, were married at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Mark's Reform Church by the pastor, the Rev. Eugene P. Skyles, assisted by the Rev. Raymond Winters.

The organist, Mrs. Kenneth F. Beck, played a medley of immortal love songs, followed by solos, "Because" and "At Dawning," sung by the Rev. Mr. Winters. Wagner's wedding march from Lohengrin, was played and during the ceremony, organ echo music was played. Leaving the church, the Mendelssohn wedding march was the accompanying music.

The bride wore a pale blue lace afternoon gown trimmed in pink with white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Weatherwax, sister of the bride, was dressed in a summer print with leghorn hat and white accessories.

John E. Harris was Mr. Cozad's best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a motor trip through Virginia. Upon their return they will reside in Cumberland.

Mrs. Roberts is a graduate of the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va., where she received a Bachelor of Science degree. She is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Wings of Youth.

SYNOPSIS
SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRANK, daughter of luxury, had a childhood romance with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific. To Perryville files BOB KENNEDY, close friend of Jack's, receiving a broken leg in a crash at the airport.

YESTERDAY: When Sarah Anne finds that Jack and Judy have fallen in love, she pretends that she now cares for Bob, visiting him often at the hospital. Actually, her heart is breaking. Judy asks her to accompany them to a movie.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
MORE SWIFTLY than any gesture given, any word spoken, during this period in which Jack had come and gone again, the presence of the third person in the car sealed Sarah Anne's fate. It put her on the outside. It did not matter that the woman with Jack was his mother. Or maybe it mattered more.

She would think of that later. At the moment it was enough to know that there was no place in his car, in his life, for her. She was being very foolish, standing there in the moonlight, at the curb, in her silly blue and gold and white dirndl dress. She wished someone would say something. For if no one did, she would go thinking crazy sentences. . . .

Jack had come thousands of miles by air, and then, by taking a few steps and opening his arms to another girl, had gone so far away she never could reach him again.

Not that she wanted to. No woman wanted a man who had smiled his farewell. Not that! But how could one trust love, count on love?

"--and you'll excuse my forgetfulness and go with us another time, won't you, Sally Anne dear?" Judy was saying in a low voice, and Sarah Anne knew that some explanation of the presence of Mrs. Courtney must have been given. She had not heard it.

More words were said. She started back to the house. Then Jack opened his door and followed her. She walked curving halfway to the paragon veranda, and there she rose bushes in a clump there, planted years before by a minister's wife who loved privacy. Tonight the fireflies were thick and the scent of the flowers, drooping with full blossoms, was heavy and warm.

At the rose bushes Jack caught up with Sarah Anne. His hands were firm, his arms strong. "Sarah Anne, what's the matter? Tell me. There was no denying the worry in the blue eyes, the deep concern in the low voice.

"It was Bernice, I guess," she answered, not even remembering much about Bernice.

"Sure, honey?"

He wanted to believe that. He didn't want to assume the sense of responsibility for her unhappiness. Yet he couldn't shift it to another if it was rightfully his. All his life he had been honest. All his life he would be that way.

"Very sure!" she lied again, so the blue eyes would clear and the frown that drew his brows together would go away.

"Good girl! And don't worry about her. Remember, if you need help, you'll always have me." He patted her hand, grinned, went around the bend.

Always have me. He was the one thing she did not have. A mail plane was passing overhead and she stood on the lawn watching it. Jack, Bob, Judy could go in pursuit. But she, who wanted to escape entanglements more than any of them, must walk quietly the earth paths. She said a prayer, a wordless one, and went in the side door, so she would not have to answer questions as to her sudden decision to stay at home.

Army Captain, Formerly of Cumberland Claims Bride at Newburgh, N. Y.

Miss Virginia Wagner, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Hayden W. Wagner, of Newburgh, N. Y., was married Saturday in the St. George's Episcopal church, Newburgh, to Capt. Duncan Sloan Somerville, Field Artillery, United States Army, son of Mrs. H. B. Somerville and the late Mr. Somerville of New York City and Cumberland, Md. The ceremony was performed by Col. Clayton E. Wheat, professor of English and former chaplain of the United States Military Academy, assisted by the rector, the Rev. Philip M. Styles. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. John F. Knowlton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bride's attendants were Mrs. John A. Wagner, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Jean L. Somerville of New York, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Alicia B. Legg of Hachensack, N. J., and Mrs. John S. Upham of West Point, N. Y.

The bride wore a starched chiffon and lace gown with long square train edged with lace. Her veil was tulle with a small coronet of lace. She carried a prayer book.

The matron of honor wore a pale pink gown of marquisette trimmed with narrow grosgrain ribbon. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses and gypsophila. The bridesmaids wore powder blue gowns of marquisette and carried deep blue delphiniums and gypsophila. They wore large hats with matching grosgrain streamers.

Capt. John S. Upham, of West Point, N. Y., a classmate of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Capt. Sherman V. Hasbrouck, Capt. Alexander M. Miller, III; Capt. Charles B. King and Lieut. Philip C. Wehle, all of West Point.

The bride graduated from Holmquist school, New Hope, Pa., and is a member of the Junior League of Newburgh. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Aspinwall of Newburgh, N. Y.

Capt. Somerville attended the University of Maryland and the United States Military Academy, having been graduated from the latter in 1928. For the past four years he has been stationed at West Point as an instructor in the department of English.

Captain Somerville is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Sloan, of Lonsconing. After a motor trip, the couple will return to Newburgh, remaining there until August 15, when they sail from New York for San Francisco en route to Capt. Somerville's new station at Fort Bliss, Tex.

"The Night Hawk" and "Water Rustlers"

At Embassy

From test boy to motion picture star in less than three years, such should read the biography of Robert Livingston, whose latest picture, "The Night Hawk," opened yesterday at the Embassy Theatre.

Livingston started his theatrical career in the famous Pasadena Community Playhouse. From there he went to a major studio, under long term contract. However, Bob's talents were utilized mainly in tests. When the studio considered some prospective actor or actress worthy of a test, Bob was usually the one who played opposite the person being tested.

When Republic Studios began their "Three Mesquiteer" series of pictures, Livingston—who had already asked for his release from the other studio—was signed to play the leads. He rapidly established himself as a top-flight actor and now is being starred in feature pictures.

One of the largest horses ever to appear in a motion picture is seen in "Water Rustlers," the unusual Western action feature which heads the current bill at the Embassy Theatre. He is "Paint," an odd-colored animal who was found on the King ranch at Mesa, Arizona, where this outdoor feature was shot in its entirety. The horse's unusual coloring was first noticed by Cameraman McK Stengler, and he was assigned to the mount for David O'Brien, who is seen opposite Dorothy Page in this picture. The animal proved such a good performer and photographed so well that he was purchased for use in all of the Dorothy Page series.

Bonif Granville In "Nancy Drew" Film at Liberty

Bonif Granville gets her man against two men in fact—and they are appropriately punished for their misdeeds in the latest episode of the adventures of the shrewd and intrepid Nancy Drew, entitled "Nancy Drew—Trouble Shooter," which opens tomorrow at the Liberty Theatre.

The new Nancy Drew picture is the third of the series starring little M. Granville which is being made by Warner Bros. from the popular stories by Carolyn Keene. As in the first two pictures of the series, Frankie Thomas is again Nancy's boy friend, and her father is again played by John Littel.

A ROMANTIC INTERLUDE

Dolores Costello and Adolphe Menjou in a romantic scene from Edward Small's latest film drama, "King of the Turf," which starts a premiere engagement at the Maryland Theatre today thru United Artists release.

Among the newcomers to the series cast are Aldrich Bowker, Edgar Edwards, Renie Riano and Charlotte Wynters, and the last mentioned introduces an entirely new factor to the background of Nancy's life, for she represents the coming of romance to Nancy's father, who is, as series fans will remember, a widower. At the end of the latest film, Nancy has not yet acquired a stepmother but it looks very much as if that will happen soon.

In the new picture, Nancy and her boy friend succeed not only in exonerating a close friend of Nancy's father from suspicion of having committed a murder, but they pin the guilt on a pair of men who are the real culprits.

New Zanuck Hit Tells Original Story of Lincoln

Don't look for the familiar Lincoln of history's pages when you go down to the Strand Theatre to see Darryl F. Zanuck's magnificent production of "Young Mr. Lincoln," which came to town last Friday with Henry Fonda in the title role and has since packed houses and thrilled. For this grand Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox is the story that has never been told of his thrilling, romantic, eventful youth in the backwoods town of Springfield, Illinois—the brawny, jack-of-all-trades who wrestled with the boys, boasted an endless fund of funny stories and a keen wit and fell in love.

Opening in 1938 when Lincoln was half-owner of the little Berry-Lincoln store in New Salem, Illinois, Lamar Trotter's original screen play shows the homely, lanky lad studying law out of a dusty old Blackstone he had taken in trade for a few groceries, and spending a few idle hours courting his first love, the gentle Ann Rutledge. From this, he goes on to Springfield to practice law and defies a maddened lynch mob to save two innocent boys. Here, too, he meets his first real test in the celebrated "moonlight murder" trial, when he defends these boys with lightning wit and brilliance, and wins a mother's undying devotion.

And then, of course, there was his romance with the ambitious, dark-haired beauty, Mary Todd, who married him and helped shape his life. When, at their first meeting, she invites him to call on her, he answers, "It will take a mighty sharp court order to stop me, Miss Todd!" The film sparkles with the choicest of the witticisms and anecdotes for which Lincoln was famous and there are thrills and romance enough to suit any taste.

Henry Fonda proves the perfect choice for the young Lincoln and turns in a performance that is truly great in its humor and understanding.

"The Jones Family in Hollywood" Due at Strand

The movies first family go to Movieland in 20th Century-Fox's "The Jones Family in Hollywood"—and what a time they have!

Dad, Ma, Granny and all the kids are in this grand slice of cinema fun, excepting Bonnie and Herbert, who had to stay at home to take care of their new baby!

Jack gets tangled up with romance, Roger tries to lick the whole movie colony, Lucy takes a screen test—and Dad takes an aspirin!

Jed Prouty, Spring Byington, Ken Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson and Billy Mahan are better than ever in this newest Jones film, which also featured William Tracy, June Gale, and Marvin Stephens.

Malcolm St. Clair directed "The Jones Family in Hollywood" from a screen play by Harold Tarshis. The original story is by Joseph Hoffman and Buster Keaton. John Stone was associate producer.

An extra added feature Thursday and Friday evenings only, at 8 o'clock, Lee Winter will stage his annual dance recital. The Revue, lasting an hour, will have over a hundred pupils in the line-up. Like the previous Winter shows, the costuming and staging will be elaborate.

"King of the Turf" Now At Maryland

Bing Crosby worked in "King of the Turf," the Edward Small production for United Artists release, starring Adolphe Menjou, and now on view at the Maryland Theatre. Not Bing Crosby, the crooner, of course, but Bing Crosby, the race horse, named after the star of screen and radio.

Bing Crosby is only one of forty or more horses cast in the picture and who was given a chance to win a race when he went on location at the Hollywood Park Track. This track, incidentally, was organized and built by Alfred E. Green, who directed "King of the Turf."

The task of handling race horses for "King of the Turf" was a highly important one and Producer Edward Small engaged Paul MacPherson, one of the Pacific Coast's greatest turf authorities, as technical adviser. MacPherson owns his own racing stable and has acted as technical adviser on many pictures, including "Stablemates," "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" and "Saragoga."

Collaborating with MacPherson in the task of assembling a cast of all-star horses for the big race sequence was Jack Moore, who also owns his own racing stables, and who has done a similar task on numerous pictures with race track backgrounds.

Every scene in which a horse was used was supervised by an official appointed by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. On top of this, there was the iron-clad regulation that the daily work of a horse must be limited to what they term two "long runs" or three "short runs" twice a day, once in the morning and once in the afternoon.

Uneasy Lies Head That Wears Crown

Gloria Stuart, who plays the role of Queen Anne in "The Three Musketeers," 20th Century-Fox's musical comedy version of Alexandre Dumas' story, which is now at the Garden Theatre, was grateful for the opportunity to play a queen. Her reason? Better let her tell it!

"In the films I've appeared in recently," the lovely actress explained, "I've been bruised by almost every member of the cast. Douglas Fowley kidnapped me in no gentle fashion; Al Hill slapped me with devastating realism; Ed- die Marr twisted my arm; Chick Chandler took a few cracks at me; even Michael Whalen treated me rough. But now I'm the Queen. And who'd dare to lay a hand on the Queen?"

Well, with The Ritz Brothers in the film, you can't tell. They might! Don Ameche is starred with the Ritzes in "The Three Musketeers," which was directed by Allan Dawn.

The private life of "Zaza," the notorious star of the French music halls, whose mad infatuation for a man she could never marry, is bared in the new picture of the same name, which Paramount has used as the new vehicle for Claudette Colbert and which is now showing at the Garden Theatre.

Lou Fette Holds Cincinnati Reds to One Hit

Bees Win Second Game after Reds Take First 12-6

Single by Craft in Sixth Robs Boston Ace of No-hit Game

27,106 Persons See Clubs Split; Grissom Gets Sixth Win

Cincinnati, June 18. (AP)—Rain fell on Crosley Field and hits landed all over the lot here today as the Boston Bees and the Cincinnati Reds divided a doubleheader before 27,106 fans huddled under umbrellas and raincoats.

The steady right-hand offerings of Lou Fette completely silenced the National League pace-setters in the nightcap as he allowed only one hit to give Boston a 5 to 0 victory.

Cincinnati won the opener, 12 to 6, in a slugfest which gave Lefty Lee Grissom his sixth win of the season.

Harry Craft singled in the fifth inning to ruin a no-hit record for Fette, making his fourth shutout.

Only two Redlegs got as far as second base as Fette recorded his eighth victory in ten starts.

Five Redlegs had scampered across the rain sodden bases before the Bees closed the first inning of the opener. Danny MacPadden was the first of four pitchers who attempted to halt the 16-hit attack and was charged with the loss.

AVERILL AS TIGER

Earl Averill

New York baseball fans get their first look at Earl Averill, one-time star Cleveland outfielder, as a Tiger when Earl appears in this uniform in the Yankee stadium. Averill was traded to Detroit by the Indians for Pitcher Harry Elsenstam and an undisclosed sum of money.

Fort Cumberland Players Given Another Week To Qualify

Melvin "Buddy" Rice, pro at the Fort Cumberland golf club announced last night that due to the rain Sunday which prevented many players from qualifying for the tournament that the tournament has been moved up one week giving players another week in which to qualify.

Rice said players who wanted to participate in the tournament must play their qualifying round anytime this week including Sunday, June 25, but all qualifying scores must be turned in not later than the 25th.

Pairings for the opening round will be played Monday, June 26 and the tournament will be played the two weeks following.

About a dozen players have posted qualifying scores and at least thirty more are expected to qualify.

Workers are busy each day improving the Fort Cumberland course and it is in excellent condition and some fine scores are being made over the sporty layout.

Duke Coach School Will Be Held Soon

Durham, N. C., June 18.—Duke university's ninth annual summer school for coaches will be held here July 24-29 and college, preparatory and high school mentors from all parts of the south and east are expected to attend.

The session, which will feature football as taught by Duke's great coach, Wallace Wade, will also offer courses in basketball, track and training.

Since started by Coach Wade in 1931, the Duke school has grown rapidly and is now generally recognized as one of the finest in the land.

This year, Coach Wade has announced, the kicking game will be stressed in the school. No mentor is better qualified to talk about this all-important department than the Duke coach. He showed what could be done with the kicking game during the past football season.

While special emphases will be given the kicking game, all other departments will be thoroughly covered during the week's school. As usual, the Duke mentor will take up his two "favorites," blocking and tackling, and will discuss the changes in offenses and defenses.

There will be moving pictures shown of outstanding games and other events and round-table discussions of high school coaching problems will be held.

There is a registration fee for the school of ten dollars. All other expense should not exceed that amount.

Fort Hoyle Is Winner

Baltimore, June 18 (AP)—The 110th Field Artillery polo team scored a 9-7 victory over the Sixteenth Field Artillery from Fort Hoyle today. The Pikesville team, in command all the way, led 5-1 at the half.

Lieut. Walter Brooks of the 110th topped the scoring with three goals.

England's Polo Team Defeats U. S. Four

Westbury, N. Y., June 18. (AP)—Power applied by the United States' famed polo team failed for three goals today as England's hard-riding quartet won the final game of the international series, 16 to 14.

Aided by a ten-goal handicap, the invaders came through after the 40-goal American four, riding as a team for the first time in competition, had tied the score in the sixth chukker. Playing a man-for-man defense against the Americans, the English held the home boys scoreless through the last two periods while Bob Skene came through in brilliant fashion to put the game on ice with a goal in the final two minutes of play.

The victory, coming after the U. S. had retained the Westchester cup with two straight triumphs, was the first success of the English over the Americans since 1914. But it, too, was the first handicap match ever played by the two countries.

McNeill and Harris Take Doubles Title

Paris, June 18. (AP)—Don McNeill and Charles Harris, the Americans, won the French Men's Doubles Championships today by defeating Jean Borotra and Jean Brugnon.

Tigers in Virtual Tie for Third Place; First Defeat for Hadley

New York, June 18 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, who practically dared the rest of the American League to do something about the Yankees, were slapped out an 8 to 5 victory over New York's three times world champions today and moved into a virtual three-way tie for third with Cleveland and Chicago.

With Schoolboy Rowe scattering hits for no more than one homerun run to an inning, Big Hank Greenberg led an assault on three new York pitchers with his sixteenth home run of the season and made it double.

It was the first defeat of the year for Bump Hadley, who had won six.
Before the game Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees was presented with the "Sporting News" award for the best manager of the 1938 season. Postmaster General
James Farley made the presentation.

HITTING PITCHER - - - By Jack Sords

Boston Wins Two Games From Cleveland; Grove Wins Second Game

Boston, June 18 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox extracted a pair of fine pitching performances from its faltering mound staff today to sweep a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians by scores of 5 to 4 and 3 to 1. A crowd of 32,000 saw the games.

Lefty Fritz Ostermuller outpitched Bob Feller to win the first game, and then another Robert Moses Grove shaded Willis Hudlin to take the nightcap, which was called at the end of the eighth inning to conform with the state Sunday sports law.

Next week's program will open Monday with Southern Methodist opposing Reformed. Wednesday, English Baptist will engage Eckhart; Thursday, First Methodist encounter Presbyterian-Brethren and Friday, Lutheran tangle with Welsh Baptist.

In other engagements this week, Welsh Baptist defeated Episcopal, 12-9, Lutheran turned back Southern Methodist, 16-10, and Salem Reformed shut out Presbyterian-Brethren, 10-0. The First Methodist-English Baptist tilt was postponed on account of rain.

"Slammin' Sam" and his partner were even after the first five matches, but turned in a one-up victory over Smith-Cooper this morning and then beat Dudley-Laffoon five up this afternoon for the tourney's most decisive triumph.

Ficard-Revolta had a plus six rating as they started today and played all-square matches with Shute-Harrison and Smith-Cooper to maintain that rating. Nelson-McSpaden, plus five at the start, were held even by Hagen Sarazen, and then grabbed a one-up victory over Armour-Thompson.

Los Angeles, June 18 (AP)—Again the National Collegiate Athletic Association offers its track and field stars to America's Olympic team.

Coach Dean Cromwell of the University of Southern California, widely mentioned as the next Olympic track coach to succeed Lawson Robertson of Pennsylvania, presented the nucleus of the coming international games brigade in a team that won its fifth straight N.C.A.A. title with an abundance of star material.

Leader of the Southern California champions and a big favorite for the 1940 games was Louie Zamperini, who won the N.C.A.A. mile for the second straight year with little difficulty.

Shotputter Elmer Hackney of Kansas State, N.C.A.A. champion with a mark of 55 feet, 10.3 inches, and "Long John" Woodruff of Pittsburgh, for three years the half mile college champion, are two who will be knocking at the Olympic gates.

Hurdler Freddie Wolcott of Rice, sprinter Moez Elber of Tuskegee and Clyde Jeffrey, Stanford, and quartermiler Erwin Miller and Howard Upson, Southern California, and Don Watts, California, are just about tops in their respective fields.

The outstanding two mile prospect, who will go after the 3,000 meters Olympic distance, seems to be Gregory Rice of Notre Dame, unbeaten for two years.

Clubs interested should write Cecil Warnick or Charles Wilson, Barton, for details.

Revolta Sinks Thirty Foot Birdie on First Hole in Playoff

By FRITZ HOWELL

Toledo, O., June 18 (AP)—Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., rammed home a 30-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a three-way playoff today to win for himself and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., the $5,200 Fifth Annual Inverness four-ball tournament.

In one of the most star-spangled finishes the classic has ever seen, Picard and Revolta, winners in 1935, rounded out the 126 holes of best-ball match play tied with Sam Snead and Vic Ghezzi, the defending champions, and Byron Nelson, the National Open King, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden.

The two losers in the playoff called it a day after Revolta's long-putt birdie, and decided to split second and third money.

Veteran Tommy Armour, who paired with long hitting Jimmy Thompson to finish in a last-place tied with Ed Dudley and Ky Laffoon, wrecked the Nelson-McSpaden chances on the last hole, after that pair appeared to be "in".

The National Open Champ and his partner needed only a half, but Armour stuck a 150-yard pitch three feet from the stick and knocked it in for a birdie to draw Nelson-McSpaden into the deadlock, and pull himself out of the cellar to split seventh and eighth money.

Here's how they finished, with the amount of cash won by each team:

Picard-Revolta, plus 6 (won playoff) $1,050.
Nelson-McSpaden, plus 6, $850.
Snead-Ghezzi, plus 6, $850.
Denny Shute and Ernie (Dutch) Harrison, plus 2, $850.
Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, even, $550.
Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, minus 2, $450.

Thomson-Armour, and Dudley-Laffoon, minus 9, $300 each.

Under the Inverness scoring system the teams get a "plus" for each hole won, and a "minus" for each hole lost, with scores being carried over from match to match.

The field of 16 professionals tore the Inverness course apart in the 126-hole four-day event, registering 286 birdies and eight eagles. Nelson-McSpaden and Snead-Ghezzi split a $200 prize for the lowest best-ball round, each getting a nine-under-par 62, while the Shute-Harrison duo received an added $100 for getting the most birdies. The pair turned in forty birdies and three eagles.

Snead and Ghezzi sailed smoothly into the play-off, but the others had a tough time in the final matches.

"Slammin' Sam" and his partner were even after the first five matches, but turned in a one-up victory over Smith-Cooper this morning and then beat Dudley-Laffoon five up this afternoon for the tourney's most decisive triumph.

Track Meet Is Cause of Bumper Crop of Arguments

Bumping of Wooderson by Rideout Said To Be an Accident

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 18 (AP)—There's always something of interest coming out of the Princeton invitation track meet, even though it's only an international debate that may go on indefinitely.

The sixth gathering of picked cinder path stars, failed to produce anything like the record-smashing performances of previous years.

But between the failure of John Woodruff to run and the failure of Sydney Wooderson to win, it brought out a bumper crop of arguments.

The lively question of whether Woodruff would run at Princeton or at the N.C.A.A. meet at Los Angeles gave rise to a great number of rather heated words, even after it was decided in favor of the latter meet.

Yesterday's question of whether Blaine Rideout bumped into Wooderson to keep him from winning the mile race, whether the collision was intentional, and whether Wooderson would have won, anyway, may keep the cables warm for weeks to come.

The performances of the winners were rather ordinary. Chuck Penick, 23-year-old University of Wisconsin alumnus, came up with the strong-kick of the four who streamed past Wooderson when the slightly built Englishman was knocked off his stride. He won in 4:11 flat, undistinguished time for the fast stadium track. Glenn Cunningham was some five yards behind with Archie San Romani third and Rideout just edging out Wooderson for fourth.

With Woodruff on the Pacific Coast, Charles Beetham, formerly of Ohio State, won the half mile for the second straight year in 1:52. Wayne Rideout, Blaine's twin brother, repeated in the three quarters in 3:02.8, two and a half seconds slower than his world record performance last year. John Quigley, New York Schoolboy turned in a surprise victory in the 440 in 1:06 and Tommy Deckard ran a 9:21.2 two miles to win handily.

Still the interest was centered on the mile and the main question now seems to be whether Wooderson could have withstood the finishing sprints of his rivals.

He was going along smoothly when Rideout tried to pass him on the final turn. Most observers agreed that the Texan in passing, bumped his rival and Wooderson in turn stepped on the track curbing and was thrown off stride.

Wooderson and his trainer, A. G. Hill, both insisted the runner had been fouled and the runner added he "hoped" it was unintentional.

Bushnell, the meet referee, said it was "an unfortunate collision," clearly unintentional, and there was no ground for a disqualification.

But there's little chance that British fans will agree. England's sports writers had it all figured out a week ago that Rideout was in the race just for "tactical purposes," and had expressed the fear that the Americans would gang up to keep Sydney from winning.

The outfield has one entry from the American League and two from the National—two familiar figures in the very best company and one newcomer on the peak: Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, Joe Magglio of the Cardinals and Morrie Aronovich of the Phillies.

DiMaggio is rushing along toward his best year since he came swinging out of the Pacific Coast League—a standout ball player on baseball's standard team. The Yankees won without him when a leg injury put him on the shelf, but the Yankees missed him just the same. His return fired them all over again after they had dropped two games in a row—a positive slump in their book.

Medwick started slowly and still is climbing every day. In the backstretch now, nearing the half-mile post and looking ahead to the stretch and the run for the wire, Joe is moving like the stake horse he is.

Arnovich for two years has been regarded as a good journeyman ball player, more appreciated by the other ball players than he has been by the fans. This year he took another hitch in his belt and stepped out. He is leading the National League in hitting and although he is away over his usual average, I haven't found a player yet who thinks he is hitting over his head. The way they look at it, Arnovich has just found himself.

The Batterymen
The softest pick on this team is behind the plate. Who else but Bill Dickey?

Great as they are, the Yankees never are quite the same when Bill is unable to play. Fortunately for the Yankees, it isn't often that he isn't out there putting on his stuff at game time. Handling the plate and slamming the ball, Bill is the best catcher in baseball and his dash to the halfway mark finds him hanging along on schedule—out in front of the rest of the receivers.

The usual quota of pitchers on a mythical team is four. For this one I'll take three from the American League and one from the National—Bob Feller of the Indians, Tommy Bridges of the Tigers, Red Ruffing of the Yankees and Paul

St. Louis, June 18 (AP)—Thousands of hero-worshipping baseball fans paid their respects today to the ability, color, popularity and dash of "Pepper" Martin, but it wasn't a belated celebration of the 1931 world series.

It was because the "wild horse of the Osage," after eight long years, is still a great ball player, and his host of friends wanted to honor him this afternoon at Sportsman's Park on "Pepper Martin day."

The veteran Martin, now captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, has but one regret—he couldn't play against the New York Giants because of the recurrence of an old wrist injury.

So well was Martin remembered with gifts, including a pair of strawberry-roan mares, that spectators almost thought the diamond was going to be converted into a farm.

Many dignitaries, including President Ford Frick of the National League and Jess (Pop) Haines, Martin's old teammate of pennant-winning days, attended the ceremonies.

Carl Hubbell, the Giant pitcher and an Oklahoman himself, presented Martin with a plow from his Oklahoma City admirers.

In behalf of his Cardinal teammates, Lou Warneke gave Martin a sow and a litter of pigs.

Trinity and Bethany United Brethren remain in a tie for first place in the South End Sunday School Football League by capturing skirmishes last week.

The pitching of Holtzman coupled with errors by St. John's gave Trinity an 8-3 victory. Holtzman allowed only two hits in registering his third consecutive triumph.

Bethany nosed out First Brethren, 6-4, with Kenneth Turner scoring the winning run when he hit a homer with two on base in the final inning.

In other games, Second Baptist emerged the winner over Evangelical, 9-3, and Emmanuel won by forfeit over Grace M. E. Bittner of Evangelical hit a home run in the first frame.

Tomorrow evening at 5 o'clock, Emmanuel will play St. John's. In the second game of the twin bill, Trinity will oppose First Brethren. Tuesday, Second Baptist will meet Bethany and Grace take on Evangelical. All games will be played on the Locust Grove field.

Merchants To Play Shamrocks This Evening

The North End Merchants-Shamrock game of the East Side Softball League, scheduled yesterday, has been postponed until this evening when it will be played on the North End Playground field at 6 p. m.

Derringer of the Reds. Feller is a major league pitcher now in the fullest sense of the term and he pitched one of his best games when he turned the Yankees back the other day. Bridges is breezing along to one of his best years. Ruffing has been the main pitching prop of the Yankees. And Derringer is, unquestionably, the best pitcher in the National League.

I'll grant there may be room for argument on some of these choices. But do you know of any manager in either league who, if this team were handed to him, would turn it down?

Cardinals Snap Winning Streak Of N. Y. Giants

St. Louis Maintains Second Place by Scoring 8 to 4 Victory

Cards Celebrate "Pepper" Martin Day with Three Runs in First

St. Louis, June 18 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals celebrating "Pepper" Martin day, piled up an early lead today at the expense of Bill Lohrmann to defeat the New York Giants 8 to 4, and retain second place in the National League flag race. The loss snapped the Giants' winning streak at nine games.

The Cards, in tribute to their injured captain, scored three runs off Lohrmann in the first and then added three more in the third off Carl Hubbell to assure victory.

Thunder Storm Damages Home; Brings Relief

Heat Wave Broken, Thermometer Drops From 100 to 60

Sharp bolts of lightning scored one direct hit in Cumberland early yesterday morning as a boisterous thunderstorm snapped the heat wave that smothered Cumberland like a blanket during the latter part of last week.

The streaking bolts of lightning first flashed over Cumberland around 2 a. m., finally puncturing the roof of the brand new home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Libbe, 1897 Bedford street, at 2:35 a. m.

Lightning Rips Roof

The bolt crashed into a brick chimney, ripped through the roof, and blazed through the ceiling of the Libbe's upstairs bedroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Libbe had no sooner popped open their eyes than they were engulfed by a tremendous crash of thunder that shook their home.

"It was quite a jar," Mr. Libbe, a city fireman at the Central station, commented yesterday in what was possibly something of an understatement.

Daughter Unhurt

Recovering from the effects of the crash, Fireman Libbe hurried to the room of his 20-year-old daughter, Mary, to see if she was all right. She was shaken but uninjured.

An investigation of the premises revealed that the scorching sheet of flame had shot through the rooftop, but did not start a fire.

The storm, the severest in Cumberland so far this season, continued until after 3 a. m. when it died away with a few rumbles in the nearby mountains.

Despite the sharpness of the lightning, no other direct hits were reported in the Cumberland vicinity. Fire companies were not called out. Police received no calls.

Storm Brings Relief

Although the violent storm played a dirty trick on one family, some 40,000 other Cumberland residents today were gratified for a respite from last week's heat which hit the 100 mark last Friday.

Yesterday was cooler. Rain fell intermittently throughout the day and continued last night. Although the weather was generally muggy early yesterday evening, later showers freshened up the air and at 11:30 the temperature was at the 60 degree mark.

Prospect was for cooler weather today with the possibility of more showers.

PWA Keeps Busy In Free State

141 Heavy Projects Already Underaken

Maryland communities this week enter their seventh year of cooperation with the heavy construction program of the federal Public Works Administration.

Ralph Hitchens, traveling engineer supervising projects in this territory, has filed a report outlining the work of the PWA in Maryland. The report shows that the PWA projects in Allegheny county now under construction comprise four new school buildings, seven school additions, and the grading of one playground, at a total estimated cost of $1,160,866.

The report also shows that throughout Maryland the various communities, with the aid of PWA, have:

Undertaken construction on 141 heavy construction projects. Undertaken construction totaling $71,254,844.

Created 73,225,000 man-hours employment in private industry. Created 225,000,000 wages for contractors' men on construction sites in Maryland.

Created orders totalling $36,000,000 for materials from factories throughout this and the 47 other states mainly for steel, cement, hardware, brick, and other heavy industries.

Created 47,000,000 man-hours employment providing materials in these industries and transporting them to construction sites.

In Maryland PWA has helped provide in depression years:

36 new schools costing $13,804,152.

47 new waterworks and sewers costing $9,181,132.

14 new hospitals costing $3,141,169.

13 highway and bridge projects costing $19,116,333.

21 public buildings costing $3,509,504.

10 miscellaneous projects costing $20,632,730.

Parents of Lefty Grove Celebrate Golden Wedding Day Tomorrow

Two of Allegheny county's most famous parents, the mother and father of baseball's immortal Lefty Grove, will celebrate their golden wedding tomorrow.

The happy celebrants are John R. and Emma Grove, who still live in the same house in the Charlestown section of Lonaconing in which they were married on June 20, 1889.

She was almost 18 then, and he was nearly 23, and there was a big celebration in the yellow frame house with the honeysuckle-covered porch.

There was another big celebration there Saturday night, when members of the family gathered to celebrate the golden wedding.

Of course, there was talk of baseball. One look at Mr. Grove, who stands a straight six feet two and one-half inches, and weighs 225 pounds, is enough to convince anyone where the famous hurler got his pitching build and power. He is a retired miner.

Mr. Grove has never seen her boy pitch but once, and that was the last time he appeared in Cumberland. She has visited him on the big league circuits several times, but was never present when he was scheduled to pitch.

Mr. Grove, of course, has seen him hurl on numerous occasions, and has posed for the news cameras alongside Babe Ruth and many other champions of the sport. And always Mr. Grove appeared in his big, black hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Grove have no set formula for happy marriage. Asked who was boss, both replied "Each of us." Mr. Grove opined that a cook like Mrs. Grove could make most any marriage successful.

Lefty was unable to get away from baseball to be at the celebration Saturday night.

The Groves have six children, Mrs. Mary Connor, of Ambridge, Pa.; Alfred Grove, of Cumberland; Mrs. Beattie Peterson, of Dunbar, W. Va.; Dewey Grove, of Lonaconing; Robert Moses Grove, better known as Lefty; and John Thomas Grove, of Lonaconing.

South End Woman Taken for 'Ride'
Man Took Her Driving, Robbed Her, She Says

George Malers really took a South Cumberland woman for a "ride" last week according to Police Chief C. V. Barnard of Ridgeley, and as a result he will jump from the frying pan into the fire this week.

Malers is due to be freed Friday from the city jail, where he is serving a ten-day sentence for disorderly conduct, but his release will merely be a signal for Chief Barnard to swing into action.

Chief Barnard said he will charge the man with highway robbery, and if he succeeds in making it stick, Malers will possibly face another sojourn in a cell.

According to Chief Barnard, Malers robbed a South Cumberland woman of a $40 watch and $10 in cash after taking her for a ride one night early last week.

Chief Barnard said that Malers invited the woman to go for a ride. She accepted. After driving out in the country, Malers proceeded to rob the surprised woman of her watch and cash and then dumped her out in the road, the officer declared.

Although Mrs. Carter was certain that the two men handed her a two-dollar bill, they insisted it was a twenty and demanded change. They got their change, and shortly afterwards Chief Barnard got them.

Good Fellowship Club Plans Picnic June 30
The Good Fellowship Club, an organization of 500 members, will hold a picnic at Smouse's Farm, off the Christy Road, Friday, June 30.

Refreshments will be served from 4:30 o'clock on and there will be baseball, horseshoe pitching contests, and athletic events. The club has had an unusually rapid growth and includes in its membership many well-known men of Cumberland and vicinity.

Charles Hare is the president and Truman C. Fuller, the secretary. The club is a non-profit organization and puts on dinners, picnics, shooting matches and other events with the proceeds of dues above the actual running expenses. Admission is free.

Kennel Club To Meet Tonight at Fairgo
The Western Maryland Kennel club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Cumberland Fairgrounds in the Jockey club room to discuss final plans concerning the superlative and judges for its eighth annual show on August 6.

Tickets for the show will be distributed among members at the meeting.

Mayor To Preside At Last Session Of Council Today

Dr. Koon Officially Ends Lengthy Career At Close of Meeting

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, Cumberland's veteran mayor, will preside at his last session of the City Council this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Although today's session will doubtless move along with the usual streamlined ease characteristic of a Koon-conducted meeting, members of the Council and spectators will be aware that the session is something of an occasion.

Presided at 1,000 Meetings
It was estimated last night that Dr. Koon has presided at over 1,000 Council meetings in his twenty-one years as mayor of Cumberland.

And a lot of ordinances and a lot of municipal matters have been thrashed out during those meetings.

Dr. Koon was naturally delighted when Gov. O'Connor honored him by appointing him to the State Tax Commission.

But despite his natural gratification at being so recognized by the head of the state government, close friends have said that cutting himself loose from City Hall is going to be "plenty hard" for the veteran chief executive.

Routine Remains Unchanged
When Dr. Koon stated last week that he would like to preside at one more City Council meeting, City Hall officials quietly recognized the statement and interpreted its significance.

However, today's Council meeting will probably be much the same as any other Council meeting.

Mayor Koon will take his accustomed place in the center. Commissioners William Edwards and Thomas Conlon will be seated to his right; Commissioners Harry Irvine and Edgar Reynolds, to his left.

Clustered about the mayor and the four commissioners will be other city officials, including City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, Engineer Ralph Rizer, Fire Chief Reid Hoenicka, Police Chief Oscar Eyerman, Health Director Joseph P. Franklin, and others.

Procedure Brisk
Mayor Koon will call the meeting to order, and then they will go to beat the band until all business is wiped off the table.

Dr. Koon's council sessions proceed at a brisk clip. The mayor himself does not mince words. He speaks tersely and his example encourages his conferees to do likewise. Spectators at Council meetings get the impression that the mayor's business-like attitude is "Get to the point boys, times a' wastin'."

Time for Laughs
There is always time out for a laugh here or a laugh there, but the mayor is at the throttle every minute and "keeps it moving."

A session of City Council never lags with Dr. Koon in the chair.

According to the schedule, Dr. Koon is to present his resignation at the close of today's Council meeting and for the moment at least, Cumberland will be without a mayor.

And having presented his resignation, Dr. Koon will conclude one of the most extended municipal careers in the annals.

City Hall employees, it was learned yesterday, are arranging a meeting to plan details of a farewell banquet for Dr. Koon.

Ridgeley Chief of Police Nabs Pair of Tarheels As Short Change Artists

Police Chief C. V. Barnard of Ridgeley today had clamped onto two alleged short change artists who he said first exhibited their art in Romney, W. Va., and later tried to gyp a Ridgeley woman.

James E. Steele and Major Alton Smith, who gave North Carolina as their home, will be given a hearing in Romney this morning after which they will be given another in Mineral county.

The two men bumped into trouble when they allegedly attempted to hoodwink Mrs. Tom Carter, of Ridgeley, who was in charge of her husband's service station.

Although Mrs. Carter was certain that the two men handed her a two-dollar bill, they insisted it was a twenty and demanded change. They got their change, and shortly afterwards Chief Barnard got them.

Revival Opens Tonight At Ridgeley Church
A week's revival will open at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Ridgeley United Brethren church. It was announced last night by the Rev. E. G. A. Snider, pastor. Services will be held each evening except Saturday.

The guest evangelist will be the Rev. C. King Welch, pastor of the Cumberland United Brethren church.

Special music will be presented each evening under the direction of the Rev. Mr. Snider. He will sing several solos and also a duet with Miss Martha Elsenhower.

Wednesday night will be "old members night."

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Shaffer, 71 Marion street, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday afternoon at Allegheny hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Hetzel Pifer, of Flintstone, announce the birth of a son Saturday morning at Memorial hospital.

Oh well, we would probably get seasick on a boat anyway.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways
This is the time of year a hard-working man begins to wonder who is planning his vacation anyway—himself or his relatives.

And if he sits down and sifts the problem to the bottom in an empirical manner after due pondering he will come to the irrefutable conclusion that it is his relatives.

One generally considers his family as more peculiar than most people. This is because one knows his body else. He generally finds that other families are equally queer if he gets to know them well enough.

Among other faults, families have too great a propensity to plan all one's vacation moves from the time he leaves the office to the time he returns.

This clockwork timing of one's movements from the time he starts until the time he gets through has him thoroughly tired out right off the bat.

Most Fathers Get New Neckties-- Papa Lloyd Gets Brand New Twins

Yesterday was Father's Day, and as far as could be learned last night, Cumberland fathers survived the occasion in good shape despite the unusual recognition heaped upon them.

Mr. Lloyd became the proud father of twins, a boy and a girl, born at 1:20 and 1:25 p. m. respectively. Mr. Lloyd was reported doing well last night.

The twins were born to Mrs. Addie Lloyd, who is 26, at the Allegheny hospital. The baby girl weighed six and a half pounds, and the boy weighed six pounds, seven and three-quarter ounces. The hospital reported all three in fine shape, too.

At least one Cumberlander became a father for the first time on Father's Day. He was Kenneth Weisenberg, 113 Virginia avenue, whose 20-year-old wife, Iona, gave birth to a baby girl at Allegheny hospital at 5:14 p. m. The baby weighed seven pounds and three-quarters of an ounce.

The first baby born on Father's Day at a local hospital was delivered to Mrs. William F. Giles, 24, of 10 Smith street, at 4:32 a. m., also at Allegheny hospital. It was the Giles' second child and weighed seven pounds and four ounces.

Legion To Open Camp for Boys
Former LaSalle Coach To Supervise Program

Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will open Camp Stillwater, Flintstone, July 10, it was announced yesterday by C. A. Eyre and Roy B. Whitson, members of the camp committee.

According to the committee members, the Legion's camp for boys will remain open until August 5 with Pat Conway, former coach at LaSalle Institute, in charge as director.

Mr. Conway, who served as director of the camp last year, will have charge of the camp program which combines supervised play and exercise with a "mighty good time."

Members who have sons they would like to send to the camp are asked to register at the Legion home, 206 Harrison street, as soon as possible. Members who have no sons are urged to sponsor some worthy son of a veteran who otherwise would be unable to go to the camp.

Boys who plan to go to the camp will require the following equipment: swimming suit, play suit, hiking shoes, pillow, blankets, and toilet articles including towel, soap, and toothbrush.

The packing company, represented by Attorneys William C. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey, denied that it was the beef that caused the illness, presenting depositions attesting to its purity. Testimony in the case occupied two full days.

Whether a new trial will be asked or an appeal sought remained unknown, pending word from the firm's legal department.

Three other members of the Leasure family, Rose H. Leasure, Mary M. Leasure, and Agnes Leasure, have similar suits pending against the firm.

Drink of Cleaning Fluid Proves Fatal to Child
Natural, childish desire to sample everything within reach today had cost the life of the 20-month-old son of a Glenn street WPA worker.

Harry Leroy Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ross, 222 Glenn street, died at Allegheny hospital Saturday afternoon two hours after he drank some cleaning fluid.

The child was seated in a high chair near a table while his mother was engaged in cleaning some clothes. While her attention was distracted, he reached over and grabbed the can and drank some of the poisonous fluid.

Admitted to the hospital at 12:30 p. m., he died at 2:12 p. m. The body was taken to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Brickman, 209 Humbird street.

South End Library Adopts New Summer Schedule
The South Cumberland branch of the Free Public Library will institute its summer schedule today, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian. The station, located in the Pennsylvania Avenue school, will be open during the summer months from 9 a. m. until noon each day except Sunday, Miss Walsh said.

Now, of course, you haven't even opened your mouth about your plans so far. And that's what gets you—just watching them fix everything, planning you down with definite dates.

Next, a letter arrives from a cousin half-way between the Fair and your home. Says she, "Joyce was telling me that you are planning to meet Ernest at the Fair on the 16th. You must stop here on the way home. We are just DYING to see you again and hope you will plan to stay as long as you can."

You see, it's getting worse and worse. Ernest is bad enough, the dope, but calling on this last batch of cousins is butting into trouble head-on.

Well, there's a week shot already. And the end is not yet. Soon, another letter from another gang stating, "After being home for a few days I know you won't want to leave without coming to see us. You really should. Aunt Susan is falling very rapidly. She won't be with us much longer. I'm afraid. Your mother said you would be sure to come."

And there you have the layout. Thoughts of moonlight nights in a new place glimmer and fade. You have to go and take your beating like a man.

You have to cater to all their damned eccentricities and whims. You have to hear about Cousin Joan's adenoids and Cousin John's making that honor society for disemboweling a flock of rabbits in the interest of science.

Oh well, we would probably get seasick on a boat anyway.

Woman's Illness Costs Firm $700
Jury Awards Damages In Corned Beef Case

Illness of a Cumberland woman two years ago will cost a Chicago corporation $700, a Circuit court jury decided Saturday.

The jury deliberated less than an hour before returning the $700 verdict in favor of Mrs. Olive R. Leasure, against Armour and Company. She had asked $2,900.

By their verdict, the jurors accepted the plaintiff's contention that her illness in May, 1937, was caused by eating corned beef packed in Brazil for the defendant company.

Mrs. Leasure, represented by Attorneys Lewis M. Wilson and Finley C. Hendrickson, testified that she became violently ill May 25, 1937, after eating the meat and was confined to the hospital for three days.

The packing company, represented by Attorneys William C. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey, denied that it was the beef that caused the illness, presenting depositions attesting to its purity. Testimony in the case occupied two full days.

Whether a new trial will be asked or an appeal sought remained unknown, pending word from the firm's legal department.

Wife in Hospital, Husband in Jail
Assault Charge Faces Man in Family Fight

An Oldtown woman was in Memorial hospital and her husband in the county jail today following a "family squabble" Saturday night.

County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle said that William Leasure would be charged with assault with intent to kill as a result of his alleged attack on his wife, Eugenia, and her father.

Mrs. Leasure was reported "resting comfortably" at the hospital, where she was taken for treatment of head injuries allegedly inflicted with two rocks by her husband. Leasure also received head injuries in the fracas and was treated at the hospital before being removed to jail.

The county investigator, who with State Police investigated, said that the fight occurred at the home of Mrs. Leasure's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Steckman, where the couple had gone for a visit with their three children.

The Leasures are said to live at Bear Hill, near Oldtown.

Out-of-Town Drivers Fined for Speeding
Three out-of-town motorists, all charged with careless driving, were fined Saturday in Police court by Magistrate Frank A. Perdue.

The drivers, Howard S. Nave, of Bedford Valley, Pa.; William J. Yantz, of Mt. Savage, and Edward L. Smith, of Ridgeley, were each fined $1 for speeding on the West Side.

Officers R. C. Cassen and Luther L. Youngblood made the arrests.

Early Cumberland Inns Described In New Volume at Public Library
Persons interested in Cumberland's early history will find some interesting material in two of the new books at the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to an announcement by Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Washington's travels in the Cumberland area are described in a chapter in "George Washington Traveled This Way," by Fred L. Holmes. The volume, describing personal visits throughout the "Washington country" also contains forty-three illustrations and a map.

Taverns Listed
Another book in which Cumberland is treated is "Early American Taverns," by Elsie Lathrop. Described by Miss Walsh as a "real contribution to American social history," the work contains many fine illustrations and a record of inns by states and towns. No less than fifteen are listed for the Queen City.

Other new volumes received at the library are described by Miss Walsh as follows:

A notable new book is "The New Deal in Old Rome," by H. J. Hasckell, editor of The Kansas City Star. "The New Deal in Old Rome" tells how government in the ancient world tried to deal with modern problems.

Experiment Described
Another volume of more than usual interest is "Paradise Planters," a sympathetic and entertaining account of the rise and fall of the

Most Fathers Get New Neckties-- Papa Lloyd Gets Brand New Twins

Yesterday was Father's Day, and as far as could be learned last night, Cumberland fathers survived the occasion in good shape despite the unusual recognition heaped upon them.

Mr. Lloyd became the proud father of twins, a boy and a girl, born at 1:20 and 1:25 p. m. respectively. Mr. Lloyd was reported doing well last night.

The twins were born to Mrs. Addie Lloyd, who is 26, at the Allegheny hospital. The baby girl weighed six and a half pounds, and the boy weighed six pounds, seven and three-quarter ounces. The hospital reported all three in fine shape, too.

At least one Cumberlander became a father for the first time on Father's Day. He was Kenneth Weisenberg, 113 Virginia avenue, whose 20-year-old wife, Iona, gave birth to a baby girl at Allegheny hospital at 5:14 p. m. The baby weighed seven pounds and three-quarters of an ounce.

The first baby born on Father's Day at a local hospital was delivered to Mrs. William F. Giles, 24, of 10 Smith street, at 4:32 a. m., also at Allegheny hospital. It was the Giles' second child and weighed seven pounds and four ounces.

Former LaSalle Coach To Supervise Program

Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will open Camp Stillwater, Flintstone, July 10, it was announced yesterday by C. A. Eyre and Roy B. Whitson, members of the camp committee.

According to the committee members, the Legion's camp for boys will remain open until August 5 with Pat Conway, former coach at LaSalle Institute, in charge as director.

Mr. Conway, who served as director of the camp last year, will have charge of the camp program which combines supervised play and exercise with a "mighty good time."

Members who have sons they would like to send to the camp are asked to register at the Legion home, 206 Harrison street, as soon as possible. Members who have no sons are urged to sponsor some worthy son of a veteran who otherwise would be unable to go to the camp.

Boys who plan to go to the camp will require the following equipment: swimming suit, play suit, hiking shoes, pillow, blankets, and toilet articles including towel, soap, and toothbrush.

The packing company, represented by Attorneys William C. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey, denied that it was the beef that caused the illness, presenting depositions attesting to its purity. Testimony in the case occupied two full days.

Whether a new trial will be asked or an appeal sought remained unknown, pending word from the firm's legal department.

Three other members of the Leasure family, Rose H. Leasure, Mary M. Leasure, and Agnes Leasure, have similar suits pending against the firm.
